I'm somewhat credulous, but I never believe that stuff when some fellow tells about killing a girl because he loved her so much. My idea of love is one of kindness, patience, forbearance, sympathy. Murder is as foreign to love as hate is to affection. When murder is committed an uncontrolled passion has a deadly weapon in its hand. Love never fired a bullet into anyone's heart. Genuine love has a conscience, is governed by justice and a sense of righteousness. If you love a girl so much you think you can't get along without her you only prove yourself a liar when you kill her. Your act falsifies your statement. What you need is a good swift kick.

New service has been introduced at one of the coffee shops. It is called the "paper clip press." When the waiter spills coffee on your pants the house supplies clips to keep the crease in regular formation. You may not like it, but it's better than no service at all.

Russia, the home of the proletariat, maybe, where labor is supposed to be emancipated, disregards the rules when necessity demands. A member of the Moscow to Oakland flight remains at the controls for 63 hours. Will C. O. Lewis see that overtime is paid?

An inquiry has been made: "Should a man die because he is poor?" Well, I do not know that he should die, but if he feels the way most poor men feel, he might as well die.

Do not indulge in serious meditation while crossing an intersection. Better concentrate on safety, and pick up the more solemn thoughts when you reach the sidewalk. Otherwise you may never reach the walk. Someone will carry you.

A Los Angeles paper, reporting a society event in Orange county, said it occurred in "the thriving little city on the east." The statement is challenged in two particulars. We are not little, and we are not on the east. Otherwise the score remains two to one at the end of the first inning.

I'm perplexed. Les Fountain is taking chairs out of the West Coast. I don't know whether he is going to advertise standing room only, or furnishing chairs for a sit-down strike.

Ever encounter one of those sleepy-eyed clerks early in the morning sweeping the sidewalk, who paid no more attention to you than you pay to your landlord? If you are inclined to gossip go down early and you'll get the dirt.

Chief of Police Howard introduced me to a young fellow all dressed up in a light suit, and said he was his brother from Missouri. I can understand how he might be the chief's brother, but why did he have to come from Missouri? Later on I found out why. He likes fishing, and the state has two rivers, one bordering the east, and another half-way on the west, and then starting for the east with near Alton as its terminal. Lot of catfish in the Mississippi and Missouri. The visiting Howard was afforded an opportunity to get the difference between river and ocean fishing. Such an experience is (See SKINNY, Page 2)

When you want something done that calls for the work of a specialist in that line, the surest way to waste money and time is to try to economize by doing the job yourself.

I'll never forget the fella down home who was arrested for stealing a watch. Just because he was a good talker and had won a lot of arguments around the pool hall, he thought he'd save the price of a lawyer by defending his case in court. I will say he put up a wonderful argument that day. It was the finest speech of his career and he held the jury spell-bound.

He proved a perfect alibi by bringin' in 10 witnesses who swore he was 40 miles from the place where the watch was stolen. There was the weak spot in his defense. They found the watch in his pocket!

High Sea Traps Vessel

San Pedro Trawler Picks Up Victims

In a thrilling rescue amid mountainous waves off San Clemente late yesterday afternoon, two Newport harbor fishermen were saved from possible drowning after one of their number had been tossed headlong into the sea by a huge comb which swept across their dory.

Distress signals made by Lew Wallace, owner of the craft, and his helper, identified only as Robertson, were sighted by a passing San Pedro trawler and the men were picked up and taken to Newport harbor.

Fishing in a Seabright dory, the pair had caught eight albacore and finished lunch when the sea commenced to get threatening. Wallace and Robertson started for the shore, but the swells became so heavy that progress was impossible.

In a desperate effort to get the tossing dory under control, they dropped anchor. Waves shattering over the tiny vessel struck Wallace, a disabled veteran, and hurled him overboard. He was rescued by Robertson after a terrific fight against the heavy seas.

When the San Pedro trawler sighted their distress signals, it picked them up and the dory was abandoned to its fate.

Found this morning washed on shore at San Onofre, it caused fears that the two men had been lost during the night.

Wallace and Robertson went to San Clemente today to take the craft back to Newport harbor.

TAX QUIZ NAMES STEEL LEADER

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A congressional investigating committee received testimony today that Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, Mrs. Taylor and the late Alfred I. du Pont, had reduced taxes by incorporating family residences.

Arthur H. Kent, assistant general counsel of the treasury, also told the tax inquiry committee that Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of General Motors corporation, and Mrs. Emily R. Cadwalder, of Fort Washington, Pa., had effected tax savings by incorporating yachts.

Next Kent named Ed Wynn, the actor and radio entertainer, Fritz Kreisler, the said violinist, and Percy Crosby, creator of the newspaper cartoon character of "Skipper," as persons who had incorporated "personal talents" to reduce taxes.

Byron V. Curry, former welfare director who was ousted when the present "New Deal" board of supervisors came into power, paid the board a surprise visit yesterday afternoon and kept things humming for a quick five minutes.

Curry's first move, after breezing into the board room and being invited inside the rail to shake hands with the board which swept him out in a general housecleaning, was to shake hands all around and burn a cigar from Supervisor John Mitchell.

"I'm going to move into his district," grinned Curry, in fine fettle and just returned from an eastern trip. "Not only that, I'm going to put in a hog ranch out there, John."

Mitchell, to whom hog ranches are as sunburn is to a chorus girl, made a wry face.

Curry then let one fly at Supervisor Harry Riley.

"I see you've been taken notice of in the green sheet," he smiled.

"The what?" said Riley.

Then Riley came back: "Well, you can't please everybody all the time."

Said the ousted welfare director: "I know it!"

Explained Riley: "I'm on friendly terms with everybody, whether or not they're on friendly terms with me."

"Me too," smiled Curry as he and the cigar walked out.

CAPULET AND MONTAGUE—This must be the start of a trip down a motorized Lover's Lane on the du Pont estate near Wilmington. The stalwart son of the President and a daughter of the du Ponts laugh at the whims of politics and take a ride with the top down. This afternoon they exchanged vows before a small assemblage of personages high in governmental, financial and social circles. (Wedding picture and details on page 5.)

Modern Romeo Weds His Juliet

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Ethel du Pont and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., were married today before a distinguished company of more than 300 persons, including President Roosevelt, the bridegroom's father. The ceremony, which required about 20 minutes, began shortly after 4 p. m., when the lovely 21-year-old bride walked with her father down the satin-covered aisle of little Christ church. She was clad in a shimmering white gown and a billowy white veil trailed from her shoulders.

At the chancel the daughter of the powerful industrial family of du Ponts met the tall, yellow-haired son of America's first-ranking political family, the Roosevelts.

'ROMINENTS' PRESENT
Behind the wedding pair, in the nave of the church, the fashionably dressed assemblage included not only the President, but others high in government, principal du Pont family leaders and scores of social regulars.

Both the Rev. Endicott Peabody, who has officiated at many Roosevelts.

Substantial increases in net earnings and a gain of some $300,000 in the bond account were reported by Mellenin. "The trust department," he also said, "has made a splendid gain during the past year."

"A return of confidence is indicated by a decrease in earnings from safety deposit boxes," Mellenin declared. "People who put their money away in the vaults during the depression are now taking it out and putting it to good use."

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson, pastor of the Angelus temple, was a prospective defense witness today in the trial of John Wuest Hunt, charged with violation of the Mann act in bringing 17-year-old Delight Jewett here from Denver.

YOUTH LEAPS OFF 'SUICIDE BRIDGE'
PASADENA, (AP)—Shortly after contracts were awarded for creation of a barrier to make the Colorado street bridge "suicide proof," a 17-year-old high school student yesterday plunged to his death from the span.

The death of the youth, James Ray Aliferi, was the 79th suicide victim of the bridge listed in police records.

When Mr. and Mrs. Santa Ana's freckle-faced boys and girls show up at 9 a. m. Saturday in front of The Journal office for the newspaper's big freckle contest, they're going to face an array of expert judges.

The judges who will decide which boy or girl is entitled to wear the crown of freckle king or queen will be beauty experts, selected from the beauty salons in Santa Ana. And do they know their freckles! You bet they do, and if Johnny tries to run in a few iodine spots as ringers he's going to be disqualified a lot quicker than it will take him to rub them off.

The contest rules are simple: Any boy or girl in Orange county with freckles and under 15 years of age, is entitled to enter without fees of any kind. And the contestants must be in front of The Journal office, 117 East Fifth street, by 9 a. m. Saturday.

First prize is $5 and the royal title. The next five prizes will be packages of fireworks each containing 273 pieces. Boys and girls, make those freckles pay!

Big Gain In Bank Deposits

Loans Up $513,000 As Fiscal Year Closes

Tremendous gains in local business activity were indicated today as the four banking houses reported increases in deposits totaling more than $2,000,000 during the past fiscal year.

Loan increases were shown to be some $513,000 after a half-million dollar decrease in loans at the First National bank had been deducted. There is now a healthy demand for loans at this bank, President A. I. Mellenin said.

Greatest gains were reported by the Bank of America, where deposits were up $800,000 and loans nearly $450,000.

At the Security First National bank, deposit increases were shown to be $650,000 and loan gains $400,000.

A half million dollar increase in deposits and a similar decrease in loans were revealed on the books of the First National bank. From an accounting standpoint this gives the bank a deposit increase of about $1,000,000.

Officials of all the banks stated that demands for loans at the present time were greater now than at any period during the year.

The figures were released by Chester Warren, branch manager of the Bank of America, A. I. Mellenin, president of the First National; Frank Was, branch manager of the Security First National; and A. C. Haenjaeger, vice president and cashier of the Commercial National.

EARNINGS GO UP

Thousands Aid in Search for Fiend

Countless Clews Checked to Find Madman Who Murdered Three Inglewood Children; Several Suspects Held for Questioning.

INGLEWOOD, (AP)—The quest for the degenerate slayer of three little Inglewood girls became a crusade today, as thousands of residents of the Los Angeles area volunteered assistance to police and sheriff's officers in tracking down the fiend. Yet, with several suspects in custody, countless clews checked, and thousands of tips considered, authorities said theatrical crimes still were far from solution.

They know that the kidnappings and murders were the work of a sexual pervert. That was established definitely by the report of the county autopsy surgeon, who examined the ravished children, Madeline Everett, 7; her sister, Melba, 9, and Marjorie Stephens, 8.

As law enforcement officers checked the whereabouts of every known perpetrator of a sexual crime, citizens cooperated in the manhunt by reporting the actions of every suspicious character in their neighborhoods. Empty houses were searched, the many foothill regions were watched for possible appearance of a battered old (Ford) automobile. This auto, authorities believe, was used by the fiend in transporting the children from the Inglewood park to the scene of their murder in the Baldwin hills.

Released after being subjected to rigorous questioning was a young man closely resembling the overall-clad workman who last Friday asked Olive Everett, sister of two of the slain girls, to accompany him on a rabbit hunt. The suspect has a sailor's knot tattooed on his right arm. He has a small, pointed moustache. Someone answering this general description, the authorities believe, is the man who lured the victims to their death, promising them the excitement of a rabbit hunt.

LOOK FOR 'EDDIE'
Their bodies, ropes about their necks, were discovered in a deep ravine Monday. They are believed to have been killed Saturday night. Authorities believe the slayer was known to his child victims as "Eddie the Sailor." Little Jeanette told the swimming pool matron at the park she was going to get some rope for "Eddie," who was going to do tricks for her and the Everett sisters. Various children who play in the park know a man who has frequented it only as "Eddie the Sailor."

With rewards totaling $3500 spurring the hunt for the maniacal killer, special headquarters for the case have been established at the Inglewood city hall. Law enforcement agencies have been co-ordinated under direction of Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz of Los Angeles county.

QUESTION MANIAC
Among the many suspects questioned was a maniac who escaped last Thursday from the state hospital at Camarillo, 50 miles northwest of here. Santa Monica police arrested him, but he was returned to Camarillo where he was questioned about the triple slayings. Officers were sent back to Camarillo and brought him to Inglewood.

Mrs. Cora Hand, resident of Inglewood, is believed to have been (See HUNT SPURRED, Page 2)

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Representatives of 111 newspaper associations waged a campaign today against a closed shop for editorial employees, asserting that the responsibility for impartial news reporting cannot be discharged "if some outside authority" determines whom the publishers shall or shall not employ.

More than 500 publishers and executives, meeting in a special convention yesterday, adopted a resolution declaring "unalterable opposition" to the closed shop proposed by the American Newspaper Guild.

Building Workers Strike Set in S.F.
SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—An eleventh-hour effort to defer the threatened strike of more than 4000 service workers in 200 San Francisco office buildings was made today by Mayor Angelo J. Rossi. The mayor called a meeting of union leaders and representatives of the Building Owners and Managers association.

There were indications that unless the owners took an about-face toward a demanded preference of employment, a strike after midnight tonight was inevitable.

SPAIN BREACH WIDENS
ROME, (AP)—Withdrawal of Italian-German observers participating in the Spanish neutrality pact was disclosed today by the Italian press, further widening the breach in non-intervention committee efforts to isolate the Spanish war.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The treasury rounded out another fiscal year today with the smallest deficit in six years, the biggest debt in history, and $1,000,000,000 in its cash box.

Government income was the largest since 1921, and spending was reduced from last year. President Roosevelt made public at his press conference late yesterday a budget bureau report showing revenues would top his revised estimate by $50,000,000 to $60,000,000.

SPENDING TOPS FORECAST
Spending for ordinary government purposes, it said, will exceed the forecast by $75,000,000. The $75,000,000 figure, Mr. Roosevelt said, included $40,000,000 which the treasury deposited in the social security old age reserve fund this month.

Including emergency and relief outlays in the spending estimate, treasury statistics showed that expenditures were $137,000,000 over the President's estimate on June 26. The computation did not include $103,000,000 spent to pay off the government debt.

The $137,000,000 excess over the estimate will increase further when

HUNT SPURRED FOR MAD KILLER

Suspects Nabbed, But Case Fails Solution

The last person to see the little girls alive last Saturday. She said she saw a man answering the description of the hunted degenerate driving from Inglewood toward the Baldwin Hills, and with him were three little girls. She said she believes the man she saw is the man who killed them.

LOCAL OFFICERS PROBE CLUES

Reports from persons who thought they "had seen the Inglewood slayer" continued to pour into local law enforcement offices today.

Several officers in both the police and sheriff's office were kept busy this morning checking on calls that come in almost hourly.

J. H. Dyer, 501 North West street, Anaheim, last night summoned sheriff's deputies to investigate a man who "looked like the suspect." The report, like all the others, proved to be a false lead.

Earl Kasers, a transient, was picked up at the Shady Brook camp in Silverado canyon after a report had been made that his actions were "suspicious." He was jailed on a vagrancy charge.

Every lead, according to Sheriff Logan Jackson and Chief of Police Floyd Howard, is being followed up, no matter how misleading it may seem.

Ernest Walz of the Sea Shell cafe at Balboa reported today to police there that he had seen a car near Victorville which answered the description of the killer's automobile. The car, which he observed Monday at 12:30 p. m. was a gray model A Ford with no fenders.

Mae West Again Dodges Court

LOS ANGELES. (P)—Mae West failed to make a personal appearance in court today, but she'll have to answer questions as to whether she was married to Frank Wallace anyway.

A superior judge ordered the buxom movie lass to attend a deposition hearing July 9 to answer Wallace's claim that there was a legal marriage between himself and Mae in Milwaukee on April 11, 1911.

Mae has denied she was married, but such a denial never has been entered on any court record.

Geisha Girls on 'Lie-Down' Strike

TOKYO. (P)—A hundred Japanese Geisha girls went on a "lie-down" strike today, demanding an increase in fees for entertaining gentlemen friends.

The girls in the little port city of Kisarazu went to an old Buddhist temple. Sympathetic monks gave them food and prayer beads. Then the Geisha reclined on the floor, vowing they would starve unless their demands were granted. Mediation efforts were started.

Three Little Girls Whose Bodies Were Found Mutilated

An intensified search for a suspected kidnapper of these three little Inglewood, Calif., girls ended in the discovery of their bodies. Police said they were the victims of a degenerate. Left to right: Madeline Everette, 7; Melba, 9, her sister, and Jeanette Marjorie Stephens, 8. A manhunt, unparalleled in California history, was launched for a suspect in the brutal slayings.

ALIENISTS PAINT KILLER

LOS ANGELES. (P)—Psychiatrists, some of whom have testified in notorious criminal cases, attempted today to deduce the personality of the man who violated and fiendishly slew three young Inglewood girls in a Baldwin Hills ravine Saturday.

Dr. Gustav Boehme expressed belief that the slayer was of a primitive mental type which attaches mystic significance to the number three. He said the man also probably was a shoe fetishist, a type well known to psychiatrists.

He called attention to the fact that the young victims' shoes were found neatly arranged in pairs and in a row, a few feet apart.

Dr. Victor Parkin said the slayer probably is a man of quiet, gentle demeanor, ordinarily. "Obviously, he is a sexual sadist," said Dr. Parkin. "This type feels an urge to reduce the object of his terrible affection to complete subjugation."

"As death is the complete and abject form of subjugation, the sexual sadist is one of the most dangerous types of criminal."

OTHERS' IDEAS

Dr. Guy Johnson pictured the slayer as probably a person or paranoid-praeox tendencies, but in many respects sane.

"The disposition of the shoes indicates he had an orderly mind," Dr. Johnson said. "This is characteristic of the paranoid-praeox type."

Dr. Cecil Reynolds said: "If he is captured and brought to trial, I don't think he necessarily can be successful in a plea of insanity. Sex crimes are not in themselves an indication of insanity. There would have to be overwhelming evidence of insanity in other phases of his conduct before an intelligent jury would find him incompetent."

Merrill Vague About His Film

HOLLYWOOD. (P)—Dick Merrill, airplane pilot to whom an Atlantic crossing is a mere commutation trip, was here today to appear in a film, but he was pretty vague about it.

"I'm here to make a motion picture," he said after he and his partner, Jack Lambie, arrived in their transport plane. "I don't know what it's about, where it will be made or who will produce it."

'Nuisance' Tax Extension Signed

WASHINGTON. (P)—President Roosevelt signed today legislation extending for two years the so-called "nuisance" taxes which are designed to raise approximately $625,000,000 in revenue annually.

The taxes apply to a wide variety of products ranging from automobiles and trucks to furs and chewing gum. The bill also continues the 3-cent postage rate.

If You See This Man Call Police!

Local officers request that anyone seeing a man answering the following official description get in touch at once with them:

Thin-faced, between 35 and 40 years of age, about 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighs between 150 and 160 pounds, medium light complexion, pointed mustache, dark hair, blue eyes and tattoo mark on right arm. When last seen he wore a brown shirt, open at the throat, and baggy, unpressed blue denim overall trousers.

The suspect's car is a model A Ford roadster, 1929 or 1930, color not known, but dark in appearance, no running board, fenders or top. Also had writing or painted slogans on side.

COURT HEARS MOTHER-IN-LAW

VENTURA. (P)—Mrs. Mary Brill testified today in trial of the marriage annulment suit of her son, William Brill, 2nd, that he told her soon after his return from a Yuma, Ariz., elopement with Nan Pierson Books Macy, socially prominent New Yorker, that he did not plan to live with the bride.

Brill contends he was intoxicated at the time of the marriage. Mrs. Brill testified she had seen him "pass out" several times from drinking.

She said that after he returned to Los Angeles from a two-day honeymoon that followed his marriage, "he looked terrible."

"He looked as if he hadn't slept for four nights," she said.

Mrs. Brill testified she asked her son when he came back to their Los Angeles apartment how he was going to live and support his bride. She said he talked of getting a job and she told him, "I guess you will have to bring her (the bride) here." He then told her he did not "intend to live with Nancy," anyway, his mother said.

The elder Mrs. Brill testified her son receives only $15 a week allowance.

UNION WOMEN STAGE BATTLE

CLEVELAND. (P)—Several persons were injured, women's dresses were ripped apart and one man was arrested today in a clash between A. F. L. and C. I. O. garment workers at the plant of the Stone Knitting Mills Co. here.

The A. F. L. group forced its way through the C. I. O. picket line into the mill, one of four plants here that had been closed by C. I. O. picket lines in an organization dispute with the A. F. L.

The A. F. L. contingent massed near a police station and marched to the plant. There mounted policemen and 30 patrolmen pushed the C. I. O. pickets away from the plant entrance. Both groups were mostly women. Fists, brooms, umbrellas, police clubs and an occasional blackjack were used in the 10-minute fight.

WORLD TRADE PACT FAVORED

WASHINGTON. (P)—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Paul van Zeeland of Belgium yesterday issued a joint statement in which they said the United States is disposed to cooperate in "the joint work" of rebuilding international trade, solving monetary matters, and effecting armament reduction.

"Beyond relations between Belgium and the United States," the statement said, "they (the President and Van Zeeland) reviewed the questions of economic difficulties and the continuing armament race that are now creating so much anxiety in the hearts of people everywhere."

"Out of the conversations it was stressed that within the frame of traditional American policy it was the disposition of the United States to cooperate in the joint work of rebuilding international trade, operating in international matters, seeking arrangements whereby the burdens and dangers of overwhelming armaments might be reduced or the method of their employment safeguarded."

SOVIET VESSEL SUNK IN CLASH

HSINKING, Manchoukuo. (P)—Japanese-Manchoukuo artillery along the disputed Amur river border was reported in Japanese army and news agency invades today to have sunk one "invading" Soviet gunboat, badly damaged another and forced a third to flee.

Thus the long troubled Far East frontier relations between Russia and the Japanese-censored state of Manchoukuo reached a dramatic and dangerous climax.

The Japanese said the Soviet vessels "invaded" a Manchoukuo channel south of Sennufu (Kanchatu) island in the river, firing on Japanese-Manchoukuo forces guarding the shore. The latter's guns returned to fire.

Later advices said the Soviet Amur river fleet of more than a dozen gunboats and many hydroplanes was being concentrated.

The gravest view was taken of the situation. Powerful Japanese-Manchoukuo reinforcements were being rushed to the river to prepare for eventualities.

The Manchoukuo government immediately filed a vigorous protest to Moscow against the alleged invasion.

The Amur river runs along the northeastern Manchoukuo-Siberian border.

AMELIA SET FOR HAZARDOUS HOP

ABOARD U. S. COAST GUARD CUTTER ITASCA at Howland Island. (P)—Amelia Earhart reported today she planned to start tomorrow on the most hazardous flight of her leisurely world-circling journey.

The hop will carry her over 2570 miles of ocean, across the equator and the international dateline from Lae, New Guinea, to lonely Howland Island.

As times are figured locally, she will complete the 13 or 20-hour flight a few hours before she starts it.

She radioed she will take off at 1:30 p. m., Lae time, Thursday, "if the weather is OK." Crossing the international date line on the way, she would arrive here between 10 a. m. and noon, Howland time, Thursday.

Miss Earhart will be in radio contact with the U. S. navy's ocean going tug Ontario during the first portion of her flight and with the Itasca during at least the last 500 miles.

YOUNG F. D. R. AND ETHEL WED

velt functions including the President's two inaugurations, and the Rev. Frederick T. Ashton, pastor of Christ Church, participated in the ceremony.

Behind the two ministers rows of candle flames stirred lazily, throwing quick tiny shadows over peonies, lilacs and palms decorating the chancel. The packed church was silent. Steadily all eyes watched the veiled figure of the bride, the tall, darkly-clad figure of the bridegroom.

SERVANTS SEE IT

"Dearly beloved," began the Rev. Mr. Ashton solemnly, "we are gathered here—"

No eyes were brighter, no ears more sharply tuned to every sound than those of the du Pont family servants, seated in a choir stall. The rich voice of the country pastor moved slowly through the simple Episcopal wedding service.

"Will you have this woman to be thy wedded wife . . . ?"

"Will thou love her, comfort her, honor and keep her . . . ?"

The minister's eyes were on the President's son.

"I will," the youth replied.

VOVS REPEATED

The venerable Mr. Peabody, 80-year-old headmaster of Groton school, took up the service when the couple moved into the sanctuary. He had them join hands and repeat after him their vows.

"I Franklin, take thee Ethel . . ."

The service ended when the young couple, already declared to be man and wife and with the bride wearing her wedding ring, knelt on a satin pillow and the Rev. Mr. Peabody gave his blessing.

No Mercy for Traffic Law Breakers on July 4 Holidays

"Keep the highways safe during the holiday!" This was the plea sent out to motorists today by the highway patrol as preparations were made to direct the heaviest motor traffic of the season.

Captain Henry Meehan joined with Chief E. Raymond Cato in urging unusual caution upon persons who will take to the road next Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Because of the triple holiday, said Meehan, traffic will be unusually heavy. Every officer will be required to work double time in order that adequate patrolling may be possible.

"All traffic officers," said Chief Cato, "will not only have to watch for the dangerous and the careless driver, but also for lighted fireworks which are often either carelessly or purposely tossed out of moving cars."

A sharp watch will be kept for drunk or reckless drivers, both patrol officials pointed out. No leniency will be shown to any who threaten the safety of the highways.

School 'Lease' Setup May Be Thrown Before Courts

County Auditor W. T. Lambert may have an ace up his sleeve in the way of court action yet to play against the two Orange county school boards which slid around bid requirements in "leasing" seating equipment.

Lambert today still was holding up payment of $890 in warrants from Santa Ana and Valencia districts for "rental" applying on the purchase of more than $6000 worth of desks, chairs, and auditorium seats.

Santa Ana is limited to $1000 in expenditures without calling for bids, and Valencia is limited to $500.

The contracts between the boards and the American Seating company provide for time payments under the guise of rent in amounts not exceeding the legal limit at one time, but coming to the full purchase price over a period of months.

District Attorney W. F. Menton has ruled the subterfuge legal. Lambert's alternative, if he still contends the "leases" are an attempt to evade the law and refuses to pay the warrants, may be to hire an attorney, unless a taxpayers' group will go to court for him.

The Sheppard-Townsend controversy over the congressman's asserted desertion of the pension plan founder was rapidly reaching another climax today.

The climax will center around Sheppard's arrival here tomorrow to address a meeting of Democrats sponsored by the Orange county unit of the California Assembly of Democrats. The gathering will be in the American Legion hall here at 6:30 p. m.

Sheppard may avoid the Townsend break at this meeting unless he is "put on the spot" by Townsendites present. J. H. Walsh, district organizer for the Townsend movement, said he will not attend and knows of no loyal Townsendites who will.

SLANDER CASE

However, it is expected there will be pension plan boosters there, Democratic leaders here said.

The situation is further complicated by the arrest of Walsh Monday night on a slander complaint filed by A. P. Nelson, former district attorney here. Nelson said Walsh called him crooked at a public meeting. Walsh has been released on his own recognizance and will have a preliminary examination July 8 in the Newport Beach justice court.

The Sheppard has entered into the relations between Walsh and Nelson inasmuch as Nelson, a Townsendite, supported Sam L. Collins, Republican, for congress. Sheppard, a Democrat, was endorsed as the Townsend candidate.

DENIES AMBITION

What Sheppard may say tomorrow night, if he talks on the feud between him and Townsendites was hinted in a press release sent to The Journal today. The communication indicates that Sheppard has not relished publicity given to the break between him and Dr. F. E. Townsend.

Recently a "feeler" was sent out through a news service, indicating that Sheppard was being groomed to lead the new General Welfare club organization being formed to take over promotion of the pension movement.

"Contrary to newspaper reports," said Sheppard, "I want every individual connected with the Townsend movement to know that I would not under any circumstances accept leadership in the movement."

SCOUTS OPEN U. S. JAMBOREE

WASHINGTON. (P)—A booming cannon at the base of the Washington monument heralded the start today of one of the nation's biggest youth demonstrations—the Boy Scout Jamboree.

Upwards of 25,000 Scouts were massed in khaki columns through 350 green acres of historic ground for the brief ceremonies.

The first shot, echoing from Capitol Hill to the grassy Arlington slopes, was a signal for the boys and their leaders to spring to salute before the colors of their country.

Eleven minutes later another blast was ordered, preceding the unfurling of 52 foreign standards along the stately avenue of flags.

The deep boom of the final cannon four minutes later was the cue for a simultaneous display of 1643 other flags through the camp city.

The remainder of the first day held this program for the thousands who came to Washington afoot, by bicycle, motorcycle, automobile, train, bus, boat and airplane. Excursions to Mount Vernon; performances in camp theaters; Uncle Dan Beard, venerable Scout pioneer, will light this evening with flint and steel the fire of fellowship which will burn during the encampment.

Disciples of Esperanto Meet

WASHINGTON. (P)—Disciples of Esperanto—people who want to doctor the tongues of the world with a universal language—gathered today for their golden jubilee congress.

"Our aim," explained H. L. Shatford, a delegate, "is not to supplant all other languages, but to establish an easy auxiliary one."

Only one session of the congress will be conducted in Esperanto. "Otherwise," said Shatford, "someone might not understand what's going on."

WILL APPROVE WATER PACT

Local District to Sign Irvine Suit 'Treaty'

The Orange County Water district will place its stamp of approval July 14 on the settlement of the James Irvine suit against upper Santa Ana river groups to prevent excess spreading of water. Settlement of the lawsuit, designed to guarantee Orange county its share of the Santa Ana river flow, already has been approved by the Tri-County Water Conservation association, one of the principal defendant groups involved.

The board of directors of the local water district will meet July 14 and approve the settlement, details of which have not yet been revealed.

Immediately after the approval is signed, the water district will intervene in the case, in order to become a party to the settlement. Arrangements already have been made, by stipulation, for this action, which will be merely a routine matter, according to A. W. Rutan, attorney for the district.

C. A. Palmer, secretary of the board, said, "We think Orange county by this agreement, will get the fair share of water that is coming to it."

The agreement provides a five-year plan under which three engineers will be appointed to measure the Santa Ana river flow in order to assure that it corresponds to terms of the settlement, Palmer said.

Mill creek and Lytle creek interests are not involved in the agreement. Negotiations with these groups are still pending.

James Irvine sued the upper river groups several years ago in federal court to prevent spreading of these groups of water to which Orange county is entitled.

Heil Konoye

Japan's new prime minister, Prince Fumimaro Konoye, usually grave, appeared thus at a masquerade in Tokyo disguised as Hitler.

TOKYO. (AP)—Viscount Hide-maro Konoye, orchestra conductor and brother of the Japanese premier, offered his resignation from the house of peers today with the explanation that his musical duties and traveling made membership impracticable.

He said also that his yearly salary of 3000 yen (about $850) seemed too much for the few days attendance each year.

The Viscount plans to leave for Hollywood July 22 to conduct the Hollywood Bowl orchestra. He will take to Hollywood a Japanese version of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly."

SHULER 'PASSES UP' SANTA ANA

Another "big shot" passed Santa Ana up last night. It was "Fighting Bob" Shuler. But he says guilt for failing to show is not upon him. "Fighting Bob," who is officially known as the Rev. Bob, was scheduled to be the main speaker at the Orange County Federated Church Brotherhood meeting last night in the First Christian church.

A hundred persons, many from out of town, came to the dinner meeting. Presiding President Oliver Lingo was a bit surprised when "Fighting Bob" didn't appear for the meal, for he knew that the famed radio speaker had something of a reputation for being on time.

The dinner was stalled. So was the meeting afterward. The trio was called upon a few times. Gerald Bash gave a reading. Then the Rev. W. S. Buchanan looked at his watch a last time and called Rev. Bob on the telephone. Bob was more than apologetic.

Wilkie's father, the late John E. Wilkie, at one time was head of the secret service. The article is based on voluminous notes which he preserved.

Adams and Wilkie are planning further articles.

WPA CUTS BAND PROJECT HERE

A 25 per cent slash in Federal Music rolls here has been ordered by state WPA officials.

This was the word received by Project Director Leon Eckles today. It means that the usual list of 98 will be reduced to 75. As the average monthly pay roll is close to $8000 this will effect an immediate saving of at least $2000. Construction costs will also be lowered materially.

It is hoped that the men and women being taken off the music rolls can be placed on other WPA projects. This expectation is in the face of the demand for a cut of 125 in regular WPA construction rolls.

Under the new set up the dance band will be eliminated, it was reported, with the symphony orchestra, the band, and the chorus being maintained.

COUNTY HAS NO HOG LAW NOW

Supervisor John Mitchell's tirade against District Attorney W. F. Menton yesterday on the hog ranch regulation question had at least one result—for at least a week there won't be any hog ranch ordinance effective.

Menton was to have presented to the supervisors yesterday afternoon an amendment to take out the unconstitutional feature of the new ordinance, which was tossed out last week by the fourth district court of appeals at San Diego.

But Menton's amendment didn't show up yesterday afternoon. "I'll bring it in next week," said the district attorney. Indicating that Mitchell wasn't going to have another chance to charge Menton with bungling things in haste.

Mitchell fired a blast at Menton yesterday, charging the district attorney bungled the ordinance, which was designed to push the L. and N. Feeding company's hoggers out of the Talbert area, where neighbors had protested bitterly.

Mitchell subsided, however, when Menton pointed out that the court had thrown the ordinance out only on the fact that a clause differentiating between ranches at least a year old and those established recently was discriminatory.

The court, he said, upheld the right of counties to restrict land use, and an amendment striking out the one-year clause will make the ordinance effective. It will do no good so far as pushing the Talbert ranch out, however.

Townsend News, Views

By
WALTER R. ROBB

Orange county Townsend clubs can well be proud for having furnished better than 48 per cent of the 73 delegates seated in the Riverside Townsend convention last Saturday afternoon. The clubs of Orange county had 32 delegates, those of Riverside county 18 and San Bernardino county clubs furnished 23 of the total number. That Townsend club leadership in Orange county is efficient was made evident. The writer suggests that perhaps The Santa Ana Journal is entitled to some credit for having made the fine showing possible. For approximately 10 months now it has allowed dissemination of Townsend News and Views through the medium of this column. If every county were as fortunate as is Orange county in having a newspaper which believes in fairness and demonstrates that fairness in its attitude toward the Townsend people and their movement, then perhaps Townsend interests could be as well prosecuted as in Orange county.

Usually in a convention of this sort the trend of thought included in the report of the resolution committee with recommendations made gives intimations of what will be the final conclusions of the gathering and it was so in the Saturday one. George V. Varnum of La Habra, Rev. Fox of Chino and Rev. Josiah Tucker of Placentia were named by Chairman J. H. Walsh as the members of the committee. Varnum presented the committee's resolutions, which particularly stressed continued loyalty to Dr. Francis E. Townsend as the national leader and also opposition to the idea of changing the names of the Townsend clubs, and this proved to be the dominant note of the entire convention program, proving how sound is the loyalty of the Townsdenites to their national leader and his organization.

There was a significant note in one of the resolutions adopted, which read: "We favor the re-election of all congressmen who are favorable to, vote for and loyally support the Townsend plan in all its stages toward ultimate enactment, and we favor the displacement of all congressmen opposing it, and the election in their place of more intelligent congressmen." There was a kind of a hollow laughter that followed the reading of this resolution, which gave ample evidence of what the Townsdenites in general were thinking.

Another resolution which bespoke the intention of the Townsdenites of the state to make their influence felt in connection with the promotion of as favorable conditions as can be had in connection with California legislation included an appeal to be made to Governor Merriam to place a prominent Townsdenite of known loyalty on the new state welfare board to be appointed late in August of this year.

The convention's nominating committee was named by Chairman Walsh after he was certain who would be eligible for appointment. Their task consisted in bringing in nominations for the permanent officers of the convention and also for places on the 19th district board. The committee was made up of the following: If the writer got their names correctly: Mrs. H. F. Robertson, Costa Mesa and J. I. Barber of Santa Ana Gardens were from Orange county. The others were H. J. Briscoe, Hemet; H. E. Hellsinger, Ontario, and A. H. Foster of Redlands.

After some delay the committee reported the selection for permanent chairman. The committee made only one nomination, which was J. H. Walsh, and for secretary they named Howard Twitchell. Both of these men were later elected. The committee also nominated the following men as candidates for the three places to be filled on the district board by Orange county people: Mr. William Lyric, Yorba Linda; Rev. Josiah Tucker, Placentia; John L. White, Laguna Beach; Mr. E. E. Proud, of La Habra and John W. Sauer of Tustin. There were other nominations from the floor whose names the writer did not get. From San Bernardino county the committee nominated J. M. Hinshaw, Ontario; George V. Decker, Chino, and Dr. George K. Ebert of Redlands. From the floor Rev. S. L. Wingert of Yucaipa and Billy Ballinger of San Bernardino were nominated. The first three were later elected. The committee named Judge George Sorkness, Hemet; Dr. C. S. Harper, Riverside, and John A. Culey of Corona to be voted upon and later all three of these men were elected. The secretary of the board, C. F. Alexander of Corona, was nominated from the floor but in the vote was defeated. The voting on the board membership was done by ballot. With this matter of the election of a district board out of the way everybody knew that the real fight of the convention could not much longer be delayed. It was now about 6 p. m. and the convention had been in session since 1:30 o'clock.

The crowd was demanding an opportunity to express itself on the question of whether Representative Sheppard was going to be denied a place on the Riverside Townsend chautauqua program to be held July 3, 4 and 5 in Fairmont park. Later this question was decided in favor of granting Sheppard the privilege of addressing the July 4 afternoon program.

HIGHWAY COPS FACE BUSY TIME

Full Quota on Duty For 3-Day Holiday

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—All highway officers will be on duty for at least 12 hours a day Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Highway Patrol Chief E. Raymond Cato announced today.

Orders were sent out to officers to accept no excuse for traffic violations and to take persons found driving under the influence of liquor before magistrates immediately.

Chief Cato anticipated a high peak for travel during the three-day holiday which the celebration of the Fourth of July on Monday provides.

The highway patrol head declared that drunken drivers could expect no consideration.

In ordering officers to take such drivers to magistrates, courts at once, Chief Cato said, "We know from experience that intoxicated drivers are punished severely by these courts."

Commenting on precautions that will be taken to cut down accidents during the holiday, Chief Cato said, "All traffic officers in the state have a double responsibility over the celebration period as we not only have to watch for the dangerous and the careless driver, but also for lighted fireworks which are often either carelessly or purposely tossed out of moving cars. Our officers will accept no excuse from those who make travel unsafe for others."

Freddie's Salary Division Valid

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—An agreement made a year ago between Freddie Bartholomew's aunt and his parents, over division of the young Englishman's film earnings, is valid, a superior judge ruled yesterday.

Mylicent Bartholomew, the boy's aunt, who has legally adopted him, sought to have the agreement appointing the star's $1200 weekly salary set aside.

Yesterday's ruling pointed out that Miss Bartholomew and the parents had consented in writing to the salary division and that approval of the court was granted only upon request.

'Wiggles' On Roads To Warn Autoists

Some of Orange county's highway center-stripes are going to wiggle.

County Road Superintendent A. A. Beard said today that approaches to dangerous intersections, particularly in areas which have fog, will be marked this summer by a definite snake tendency in the ordinary white center stripe. When the line becomes wiggly, according to experts, it indicates something out of the ordinary to the motorist, who will then be on the alert for a boulevard stop or dangerous intersection.

by a decisive vote. That settled the problem before the convention and vacant seats soon began to show here and there in the audience. As folks on the way out passed the writer he heard several of them say, "There's nothing more worth while staying for." And so this brings to an end his write-up of the convention.

McIntyre informed them where to go for further conference, presumably the commerce department.

NEW LAW SIGNED BY MERRIAM BANS DRUNK DRIVER FROM WHEEL

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—Courts may suspend the privilege of any person to operate a motor vehicle for six months upon conviction of drunken driving by the terms of a bill Governor Merriam signed yesterday.

The bill was 403 by Senator Harold Seawell, Roseville. The same penalty also is to be given where a driver, involved in an accident fails to stop, where a reckless driver "proximately" causes injury to any person, or a driver fails to stop at a railway grade crossing where such a stop is required.

EFFECTIVE AUG. 27

The new law, which will be effective Aug. 27, requires the driver's license to be surrendered to the court and the motor vehicle department to cancel the license. ## SOIL PROGRAM BILL SIGNED

WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt signed a bill yesterday providing for continuation of the present soil conservation program until 1942.

Under the law, the agriculture department is authorized to pay benefits to farmers who follow approved soil-conserving practices. Congress Monday completed action on a bill appropriating $500,000,000 for such payments in 1938.

The soil conservation act, as originally passed, provided that beginning in 1938 the federal government should make grants to states for carrying out state soil-conservation programs, instead of making payments direct to farmers.

Representative Jones (D, Texas), author of the new act, said failure of the states to set up programs prompted the bill signed yesterday.

WPA Rent Goes Up-But Not Much

The WPA's rent for its Ramona building offices will go up next fiscal year—four hundredths of one cent a day for 1937-38.

Supervisors yesterday afternoon approved a lease renewal for the quarters, which the county rents from the Irvine company for $150 a month and sublets to the federal government for $1 a year.

The renewal lease, however, runs from Aug. 14 this year to June 30, 1938, because the present lease does not expire until Aug. 14.

The WPA still will pay a dollar for the renewal. Which is $0.0031 for 320 days of the coming lease year, as opposed to $0.0027 for a 365-day year.

Wife Divorces Mail Robber

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Superior Judge Charles D. Ballard granted a divorce yesterday to Mrs. Alice Wilson from Herbert E. Wilson, notorious mail robber, whom she said is now in a Canadian penitentiary.

Wilson was convicted of murder here in May, 1923, as the result of the killing of Herbert Cox, his "pal," as they attempted a jail break.

Mrs. Wilson's complaint said her husband was arrested in Toronto, Canada, last year, and accused of swindling a Canadian bond house of $94,000.

Ten hours later the two men were captured in Plattsmouth, Neb., a town of 3700.

They offered no defense at their trial. Judge Hopkins set the execution for Oct. 1.

DIESEL TAX TO START JULY 1

SACRAMENTO. — A warning that motor vehicles using diesel fuel and other similar fuels may operate on public highways after July 1 only under permits issued by the state board of equalization, was given today by members of the board.

Under terms of the use fuel tax act, it is provided:

"After July 1, 1937, it shall be unlawful for any person to place into any receptacle attached to the propulsion apparatus of a motor vehicle operating on the public highways, any fuel which does not carry the state gasoline tax unless such vehicle is equipped with a certificate that the registered owner has a permit to use such fuel."

Motor vehicle owners operating under permits issued by the board will be required to make monthly returns of the new tax at the rate of 3 cents per gallon, the same rate applying to gasoline.

It was pointed out in the warning that the tax on diesel oil and other similar fuels applies only to fuels used by motor vehicles on public highways and not to fuel used in farm equipment or machines used on other than public roads.

CUPID LAUGHS AT POLITICS

Frank and Ethel Are Storybook Lovers

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Cupid conquered family political differences in Wilmington, Del., today at the wedding of a young couple who seem to be story book sweethearts. They are:

The bride: Ethel Du Pont, 21 years old. She's the English-American type of beauty. Tall, slim, graceful, and fair-skinned with long golden hair and blue eyes, she is the gracious daughter of a wealthy and conservative family. She is a graduate of a select private school. Her parents like her to the Carolinas for the winter and to the Maine coast for the summer. She prefers horseback riding and game fishing to night clubs. Her wardrobe is simple, mostly tailored sports clothes. And for the four years she's been old enough to attend parties, rumor has linked her name with no other than that of the man who will be—

The groom: Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Jr., 22 years old. A head taller than his bride, he is slim, energetic, blue-eyed and debonaire. Born to a family name long famous in politics, he is the son of a man whose crusading policies have won the opposition of the Du Ponts. He made good scholastic records at Groton and Harvard, and at the same time held class officers, rowed on Harvard crews and belonged to the university's best clubs.

He has his father's love of persistent but affable argument over economic questions. He'll spend the next three years studying law at the University of Virginia, but he's announced no politics for me. Rumor never has linked his name with that of any other lady than the one who will become his bride.

This young romance blossomed despite the wide political differences of the two families. The Du Ponts were contributors to the Liberty League, an organization which found little, if any, good in anything done by President Roosevelt's New Deal. Mr. Roosevelt, in turn, said backers of the Liberty League and similar anti-Roosevelt organizations were "economic royalists."

Yacht Decides Aid Unnecessary

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Three ships turned from their courses to aid the distressed yacht Jane 2nd off the northwestern coast of Cuba early today, but the Jane 2nd later radiated that moderating weather conditions made assistance unnecessary.

PREVIEW: A Du Pont Marries a Roosevelt Late Today

F. D. R. SIGNS RELIEF BILL

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Roosevelt signed the $1,500,000,000 relief bill today. It provides $1,325,000,000 for WPA, $100,000,000 for the Resettlement administration and $75,000,000 for the National Youth administration for use in the fiscal year beginning tomorrow.

During the current fiscal year WPA spent approximately $1,860,000,000. The reduction in funds will require the dismissal of thousands of relief workers each week between now and July 15. Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, has set an employment figure of 1,665,477 for that date.

On June 5 there were 1,980,000 on WPA rolls, a decrease of 19,000 from the preceding week. WPA officials said that with the new relief appropriation there will be no change in the type of project undertaken, nor in the average monthly wage, which is about $54. The quotas provide reductions for every state except Florida, where a few hundred will be added.

WOMAN SEEKS MATE

Police yesterday were called by Mrs. W. C. McProud, 1429 South Garney, who asked for aid in locating her husband. He was working, she thought, in the vicinity of East Chestnut street. A search by officers proved fruitless.

America's royal romance—between the son of the founder of the New Deal and the daughter of an industrial prince—reaches its culmination late today in Christ church, Greencastle, Del., when Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Jr., take for his bride the lovely Ethel du Pont. This preview of the ceremony, visualized by Artist Van Swearingen, shows the couple being greeted at the chancel by the Rev. Frederick Ashton, who was to officiate. At the left are the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Mr. Eugene du Pont, father of the bride, watches from the right.

FAMILIES OF ROMANTIC PAIR TRACED BACK TO MIDDLE AGES

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Back of this month's most famous romances, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and Ethel du Pont, lie family histories that stretch away into Europe's middle ages. The family albums of the couple include the following high spots:

Country or origin: The Roosevelts, Holland. The Delanos (the President's mother's line), France. The Du Ponts, France.

European standing: All three families reached nobility before their pioneers set out for America. All three have coats of arms.

John Dee, Jr., Thanks Press

NEW YORK, (AP)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has written the Associated Press the following letter, expressing appreciation to the American Press for its news coverage on the death of his father, John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

"I personally and all the other members of the family have been deeply touched by the consideration shown by the press in assembling the news accounts for its readers as well as by the sentiments of esteem and friendly regard for my father expressed in articles, editorials and illustrations. 'So universal has been this tribute to my father's life and memory that I want to avail myself of this opportunity to thank the American Press, in behalf of the family, for its sympathy and kindness to us in our bereavement.'

Auto Men Reject Demands Of G. M.

DETROIT, (AP)—Homer Martin announced the United Automobile Workers of America had declined a demand that it support whatever penalties the General Motors Corporation inflicts on employees involved in "wildcat" strikes. The U. A. W. A. president said the corporation's demand had caused delay in opening negotiations for a renewal of the union's agreement with General Motors. He commented: "We are determined that unauthorized stoppages of work will cease, but we do not want to revert to the place where foremen or others will unleash on the workers their personal likes and dislikes."

Consider Fraud Convict's Plea

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—The United States circuit court of appeals took under submission yesterday the appeal of George W. Becker, serving a 15-year sentence for use of the mails to defraud. Becker charged the long term under the circumstances constituted cruel and unusual punishment and further charged two of the counts of which he was convicted were duplications. Becker, arrested in Hollywood, Calif., was convicted of posing as a "sick business engineer" and collecting some $25,000 a year in expenses from individuals seeking his business advice.

CROW TO PROVE FATAL

The 125-foot chicken ordinance brought doom to another rooster yesterday. Ira Chandler, 610 South Van Ness, complained to police that he had heard crowing very close to a residence. Officers located the source of the crowing, and the owner promised to kill the rooster promptly.

PARKER, SON SENT TO PRISON

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Ellis Parker, sr., chief of the Burlington county detectives, was sentenced to six years in a federal penitentiary today and his son, Ellis, jr., to three years for plotting the kidnapping of Paul H. Wendel. The Parkers were convicted a week ago of conspiring to seize and torture Wendel, former Trenton lawyer, to obtain from him a false confession to the Lindbergh baby kidnapping. The "confession," investigated by two grand juries, delayed the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann three days.

The jury, which heard testimony for nine weeks, recommended leniency and Federal Judge William Clark, who imposed the sentences today, said the recommendation would carry "great weight."

"If hunters were allowed to go in there, we wouldn't have any deer in five years."

That's the way one sportsman commented favorably upon Senator Harry C. Westover's bill, signed by Governor Merriam and providing a new fish and game reserve of 2200 acres at the head of Black Star canyon.

While the Black Star canyon area never has benefited the general public, which is barred from hunting there, sportsmen seem to agree unanimously that Westover's bill, effective Sept. 1, will aid greatly in conserving the county's deer, wild turkey and quail.

Ever have a couple of women wrestlers (or wrestlerettes) tumble over the ropes into your lap at ringside? Well, I did and I doubt whether I shall ever live it down. Too many of my friends were out to the Orange County Athletic club Monday night.

Paul Tucker, the umpire, has a daughter, Phyllis, who catches the southpaw slants of Miss Lois (Blonde Bombshell) Terry and the right-handed offerings of Mary Perkins. . . . Phyllis and Mary are Santa Ana girls who play for the Orange Lionettes, safe bets to represent the county in the Examiner's Southern California softball tournament in September.

Francis (Pep) Lemon, red-headed skipper of the Fullerton Merchants, Sunday baseball aggregation, has his eye on Norman Wyckoff, the ex-Saint pitcher and outfielder. . . . Wyckoff may join Fullerton next Sunday.

"Santa Ana's Stars are getting a bit panicky, but why? They want Jim Coates back and feel that he can lead them out. I admit Earl Morrill has been hit hard, but why are the other men on the playing field?" asks Joe Rodgers, fiery skipper of the Huntington Beach Oilers.

Morrill, no longer with "Doc" Smith's Smithies, always has been an easy mark for the Oilers, who may have a surprise in store for them in the next round. . . . Fred Wiener, elongated City leaguer, may add to the plate punch of Charley Comstock and Nan Coats, and with pitching assistance from Southpaw Bob Mott, Santa Ana may develop into a dangerous contender in the third round.

Right now the Stars are only two games out of first place, and potentially a party in the Shaughnessy playoffs for the four top teams in September.

NEGRO BATTLES
ROSALES HERE

A bout that may steal the show at the Orange County Athletic club tomorrow night is slated for the special event.

It matches Babe Rosales, Placentia tornado, with the clever Los Angeles negro, Kid Buddy, who has met the best of them in the 125-pound class here. Rosales has appeared on the fight card twice after being on the sidelines for a year and a half. He won the first, and dropped the decision on the second. But both battles were packed with action. Buddy is expected to extend Rosales to the limit.

Preliminaries will see Tino Munoz, Placentia, facing Ray Thompson, Los Angeles; Al Garcia, Santa Ana, starting after a long layoff, battling Pee Wee Wilson, Los Angeles; Jay Hastings, Orange lad who took on the veteran Everett Jure last week, meeting Kid Adolphus, Los Angeles, and Benny Garcia, Santa Ana, vs. Bobby Adanto, Los Angeles.

Irvine Upsets Stars' Nine, 6-4, on Two Home Runs

MOTT INJURY
TURNS TIDESalisbury, Hapes Blast
Circuit Clouts for
Lagier at Stadium

Two mighty homers off the bats of Hugh Salisbury and Ray Hapes scored the most runs, but it was a scorching single off the willow of Gene Thomas that spelled a 6 to 4 upset victory for Irvine over Santa Ana's Stars at the Municipal bowl last night.

Thomas' hot liner dislocated the middle finger on Pitcher Bob Mott's left hand, sending Manager "Doc" Smith's No. 1 hurling prospect to the showers in the third inning.

KEITHLEY HIT HARD

If Mott, who was pitching no-hit ball until the injury, had remained in the lineup, it might have been a different story, but—

Ernie Lagier's inspired Beanpickers, defending County league champions, went on to comb the offerings of Jerry Keithley, College of Pacific cast from nine hits in six innings.

The Stars' out the County Clouts, 15 to 10, and seven of their blows rained off the bats of two City league recruits, Fred Wiener and Bob Schwarm. The elongated Wiener hit three singles and a double in four trials, and Schwarm three singles in five! Wiener has become a permanent fixture in the outfield, but Schwarm is playing in Long Beach and may not be available for the Stars.

Successful singles by Wiener, Manager Smith and Nan Coats shoved Santa Ana off to a 1-run lead in the first. The Stars picked up another counter in the third on singles by Schwarm and Coats, and Tommy Young's fielder's choice.

Salisbury's drive into the left field stands, after Southpaw Keithley had walked Ray Hapes and wild pitched him to second, tied the score at 2-all for Irvine in the fourth. Thomas' singled and advanced by Burns' single and Chub Sears' grounder for another run in the fifth, but the Stars tied it up again on Schwarm's single and Wiener's double in the same inning.

STARS TAKE LEAD

The Stars went ahead, 4 to 3, in the seventh on singles by Wiener and Coats, but in the eighth, Sears gained first on an error and Hapes brought him around with a homer to left-center. Singles by Gould Staple and Sears scored the scoring at 6-4 in the ninth. The Stars loaded the bases on successive singles by Schwarm, Wiener and Smith in the last of the ninth, but Coats popped up and Young hit into a double play. Sears caught Tommy's hot liner and lunched it for a 6-5 lead.

Schwarm, Charley Comstock and Tom Denney were unavailable, the Stars playing with a makeshift lineup. . . . Santa Ana plays Orange here Friday night in another exhibition.

Things are clear as mud in the fist world, but this ought to clear everything up. Joe Louis, now heavyweight champion and second of his race to scale the Queensbury peak, holds the crown under a pseudo-shadow of Europe. After knocking out Jim Braddock in Chicago, the 23-year-old negro expressed a wish for the opportunity to dispel the shadow—to fight Max Schmeling again and offset the 12th round knockout the German handed him in New York a year ago. TURN PRO? NO, SAYS HELEN
Mrs. Moody Never Had Offer

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Helen Willis Moody, greatest tennis player of her time, never has received an offer to turn professional.

This borders on stranger than fiction. (Has Bill O'Brien, New York promoter who has practically cornered the market in this field, been asleep at the switch?)

Mrs. Moody's singular isolation in the matter of a contract offer was disclosed in a check-up of reports that she had either signed or was contemplating negotiations for a professional engagement on the courts.

"I may say quite frankly for me that I am not considering turning professional," said the many times Wimbledon and American champion. "What is most amusing to me is that I never have received an offer, directly or indirectly. There have been many, many reports I would play professionally. Each time I have denied it, when asked about it."

By the Associated Press

The San Francisco Seals outlasted their hometown rivals, the Mission Reds, in a thrilling 15-inning ball game which ended early today, gaining a half game on the Sacramento Solons, Pacific Coast league leaders, who were idle in Portland because of rain.

Lefty O'Doul's Seals won 8 to 7 after Harley Boss poled a fly to deep center in the 15th to score Al Jennings. The game was the longest in both innings and time played this season. It lasted four hours.

HUNT WILL MARRY

Art Hunt, the league's leading home run hitter and groom to be in a public wedding at home plate in Seattle July 8, connected for his 20th circuit clout last night as Seattle measured the Oakland A's, 8 to 4.

A homer by Rupert Thompson, the league's top hitter, with two mates scored in the first inning, was not enough for the San Diego Padres and they lost 6 to 3 to Los Angeles.

After three innings of scoreless baseball, the Missions' Harry Rosenberg led a fourth inning three-run uprising with a homer over the left field wall. San Francisco retailed in the first of the fifth with the aid of four hits, it would be useless to ask me. It really would be flattering to receive an offer, though."

Asked if she would consider giving up her amateur status for a financial inducement comparable to that made to Suzanne Lenglen years ago (the French star was supposed to have been guaranteed $50,000), Mrs. Moody said "positively not."

"I am not interested in playing professional tennis, now or in the future," she added. "Yes, I suppose I could make quite a lot of money at it, but as an individual I am opposed to commercializing tennis."

Although she has been invited to play in the Wightman Cup matches against the English women, Mrs. Moody will not go East for the event. Competitive tennis for her, she said, hereafter will be confined to mixed doubles matches. She practices regularly, however.

MINNEAPOLIS. (AP)—Bronko Nagurski, former all-America football star from University of Minnesota, held a one-fall victory today over Dean Detton, Salt Lake City wrestling champion. Nagurski won one fall in 46:37 minutes of a 60-minute bout with a flying tackle here last night. Nagurski weighed 232 to Detton's 208, and handled the champion with apparent ease. He frequently broke Detton's holds. The ex-footballer was in danger only once. Midway during the bout Detton lifted Nagurski in an airplane spin and "broke" him to the canvas. The "Bronk" recovered quickly and later threw the champion out of the ring. Detton's back struck a corner of the press table and he was apparently badly hurt. He was helped back into the ring. All-England Tennis

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (AP)—Red-headed Don Budge swept into the final round of the all-England tennis championships today but dropped a set before he could subdue young Frankie Parker of Milwaukee, 2-6, 6-4, 6-1.

The first set Budge had lost on his current British tennis invasion. Parker's chop-strokes had Budge helpless at first but the red-head came through in convincing style. Parker put up a brilliant battle through the second and third sets, leading 3-2 at one stage of the third set, but was the first set Budge had lost on drives in the final stanza.

Budge raced into a 4-1 lead in the fourth set and then reeled off the next two games, both deuced, for the match.

By his fine showing Parker further strengthened his claim to serious consideration for the second singles berth on the American Davis cup team for the forthcoming interzone finals against either Germany or Czechoslovakia.

After a prolonged battle, Von Cramm finally came through with a four-set victory over Austin to qualify for the right to meet Budge for the championship. The German ace won 8-6, 6-3, 12-14, 6-1.

PLANNERS BALK
AT NEW RULEObject to Churches
Ignoring Zones

An assembly bill overruling county planning regulations as to location of churches and schools today had drawn the fire of two local planning groups and the board of supervisors.

County Clerk J. M. Backs yesterday afternoon dispatched a telegram to Governor Merriam at the direction of the board, asking him not to sign Assembly Bill 2343 by Hornblower, which would permit construction and maintenance of schools and churches on any highway regardless of local planning rules.

The board was asked to act by Mrs. Ora K. Heine, who said both the county and Santa Ana city planning groups had opposed the bill but that it had been passed during the last day of the legislature.

Conducted by Edward Klein who has directed the activities of the WPA band unit for the past year and a half, the programs are meeting with wide public approval. The concerts are sponsored by the city of Santa Ana and begin promptly at 7:30 p. m.

The following program will be performed:

March, "The Marvel," Fillmore; overture, "Maritana," Wallace; "Bamboula" (negro dance of Trinidad), Ulrich; "Southern Rhapsody," Hosmer.

"Suite Espagnole-La Feria," Lacombe; "Romance," Rubenstein; cornet solo, "The Premier," Lewellyn, Ortho Luttrell; "Awakening of the Lion," Kotsky.

Vandermaast Wins
Legal Skirmish

Vandermaast, Inc. today was winner in the first round of a legal skirmish with Walter L. Moore, owner of the Moore building at Fourth and Broadway, who had evaded terms of a lease by moving stock to another location.

Superior Judge G. K. Scovel yesterday afternoon sustained a demurrer to the $25,000 damage suit and allowed 30 days for filing of an amended complaint.

Moore had complained that the Vandermaast firm moved its best stock to a new store at Fourth and Sycamore streets, thereby decreasing its revenue under a six per cent gross sales lease.

Sheppard To Talk
Fast With Board

Besides huddling with Congressman Harry Sheppard on the situation in Washington, county supervisors will gather Friday morning for another reason. They will approve the payroll for the county road department, made up at that date although other salary warrants will be approved later.

Sheppard and the board will meet at 8:30 a. m., following acceptance of the congressman's offer to talk over PWA appropriations and other matters with the county lawmakers.

BLIND AID FUND
GETS $137,000

The state and Uncle Sam will pour a stream of about $137,000 into Orange county within the next three months for old and blind persons and children's aid.

The forecast was made today by Welfare Director Jack W. Snow as he prepared his first estimate of quarterly expenditures in line with a new government policy which will pay relief costs quarterly in advance.

THREE TO ONE
The $137,000 from the government will be more than 72 per cent of the total disbursed by the welfare department during the first quarter of the new fiscal year starting tomorrow. The government will spend more than $3 for every $1 furnished by the county.

"Old age security recipients," Snow said, "will receive $116,000 of the state and federal funds, while $17,000 will go for children's aid and $4000 for blind aid."

MAY BE $187,000
When the county's share of approximately $40,000 to $45,000 is added, the total aid expenditure expected for July, August and September may reach approximately $187,000.

The estimate of federal and state funds was drawn up by Snow under new legislation which makes it possible to estimate expenditures for state aids on a quarterly basis and to claim this money in advance. Under the old system the county was able to claim state and federal funds only after the money had been paid out of the county treasury—sometimes receiving payment six months or a year later.

LURE PUPILS2290 Flock to Local Areas in 3 Days

Attendance at WPA supervised playgrounds, soaring with the summer heat, is expected to break all records, if the figures for the first three days are an indication.

The well-rounded program offered by WPA this summer has attracted 2290 students to Santa Ana summer playgrounds in the first three days, WPA recreation officials said.

The total for last Monday was 649, for Tuesday 760, and 824 for Wednesday. These figures do not include attendance at the high school swimming pool that started off yesterday with more than 115 paid admissions.

The children attending the playgrounds are part of the 18,000 children in Orange county elementary schools who were released from classroom chores last week. In addition to these there are 7000 children now on vacation from their high school studies, as well as 1700 junior college "bookworms."

The playground attendance totals so far are: Delhi, 85; Lincoln, 107; Franklin, 164; Edison, 226; Logan, 215; Roosevelt, 221; Fremont, 291; Willard, 673, and La-throp, 308.

The Bennett car tore up the walnut tree. Miss Arnold's vehicle ran over two curbs and was brought to a stop just short of the porch of a home at 221 Cypress. Four-year-old James Bennett sustained bruises. When police came they gave Miss Arnold a ticket for driving without a license.

Kolbe plans a visit with relatives in Idaho, County Clerk J. M. Backs told the board in requesting permission for Kolbe to be absent from the state for a maximum period of 20 days.

FERRIS TALKS ON 'RECOVERY'

ABBEY TO STAY ON FEE BASIS

A master stroke from the agile mind of Coroner Earl Abbey today had obtained for him two bits of good news.

One is that he will get his money for fees due him. The other is that he will remain on a fee basis until the end of his term in 1938.

What will happen to Sheriff Logan Jackson, the other center of interest in Supervisor John Mitchell's move to place county employees on a salary basis, remained in the dark. Mitchell wouldn't say.

TOUR DE FORCE
Abbey's tour de force happened yesterday afternoon at the supervisors' meeting. The coroner breezed in, smiled, and waved his straw hat. He marched up to Mitchell.

"Hey," he began. "I'd like to know something. What am I gonna do? Bill Lambert has some warrants of mine over in the auditor's office and he says he can't sign 'em if I'm going on a salary when the fiscal year begins because these run over past tomorrow."

Other supervisors craned their necks. Abbey waited. "Well," said Mitchell. "I'll tell you what I'm going to do. I'm going to recommend—what the board does is another thing—but I'm going to recommend that you remain on the same basis for the rest of this term. We've had enough lawsuits now."

WHAT ABOUT SHERIFF?
What will happen to Sheriff Jackson if both he and Abbey are put on a salary basis still is a mystery, however. Mitchell wouldn't say what would be the sheriff's position. He also wouldn't say whether Sheriff Jackson had filled out a questionnaire.

Mitchell and Supervisor N. E. West, now in Washington lobbying, sponsored a proposed salary revision for county employees, and dealt questionnaires out to all of them. There was even a special one for the sheriff. These are to be the basis for the salary revision—and the move to put Jackson and Abbey on straight salaries instead of having them paid on a fee basis.

Fred Tuffree Is
Adjudged Insane

A jury in Superior Judge G. K. Scovel's court took just 40 minutes yesterday to find Fred Tuffree, member of a prominent Placentia family, insane. Judge Tuffree took the stand in his own defense.

Judge Scovel then issued an order committing Tuffree to Norwalk state hospital for treatment.

Missing Woman
Found In Jail

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Search for a 34-year-old Phoenix woman, reported missing, ended abruptly today when a desk sergeant with a memory for names happened to glance over a week-old police blotter.

PERMITS REACH
$690,683Figure June 30 Last
Year Was $449,013

The urge to build is almost twice as strong in Santa Ana this year as in 1936.

This is true of the month of June as well as of the first six months of the year.

As the half-way mark in 1937 is reached today, the books up in the city building permit office show that $690,683 has been spent on 605 separate building projects.

Last year on June 30 only 360 permits had been granted. They involved $449,013.

The comparisons for June look much the same. There were 96 permits for $99,718 in the month just ending. Thirty-nine permits for $59,666 were issued in June of 1936.

Still June was not a good building period when the months just passed are considered. The totals have been going down steadily. The only lower month than June was January.

The year's total, however, probably will surpass the $22 permits and $1,164,175 for 1936.

Already the figure for the first six months of this year is more than twice as great as in the whole 12 months of 1934.

'Shot In Arm' For
Sheriff's Autos

Sheriff Logan Jackson's two-way radio cars, their batteries taking a beating because they have to run the motor, lights, radio receiver, and radio transmitter will get first aid in the form of new generators.

On motion of Supervisor Harry Riley, the board of supervisors yesterday afternoon authorized purchase of not more than six heavy-duty generators for the sheriff's patrol cars, to cost $35 each in stalled. The three autos used by the fruit patrol already have been equipped with heavy-duty generators.

New Officers Inducted At Dinner

Twenty-Thirtians Are Hosts to Ladies on Tenth Anniversary

Celebration of the tenth birthday anniversary of Santa Ana Twenty-Third club was combined with several other major features last night, for installation of officers, homecoming for past active members, and Ladies' night were all billed together when the club enjoyed a dinner dance at the Santa Ana Country club. Summer informality was the keynote of the affair, despite the importance of its incentive.

With their feminine guests smartly attired in sports clothes, members welcomed many past officers to the event, as well as several visiting officials. Prominent among these latter were Mr. and Mrs. Kip Wolfe and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Mittle of Orange. Mr. Wolfe, as deputy district governor, was installing officer.

President for the coming year, to succeed Dr. G. Stanley Norton, is John Knox, Jr. Inducted with him were E. Lee Smith and Bob Schilling, vice presidents. Fred Johnston, secretary; Wylie Carlyle, treasurer; Joe Winder, sergeant-at-arms, and Paul Beckman, Jack Rimel, Bill Mills and Allen Carstensen, directors.

Seated at the officers' table with them were outgoing officers, including Dr. Norton, Clarence Sprague, Carlton Smith, James Walker, Oliver Lindemeyer and Frank Lewis. Lee Smith, Fred Johnston, Bob Schilling and Paul Beckman, on the new board, were also officers during the past year.

At a second table of honor were gathered past presidents with their wives, including the Messrs. and Mesdames Leland Finley, Hume West, Verlin Anderson, LeRoy Burns, Lawrence Mitchell, Wayne Harrison, John Lutz, Dr. and Mrs. Horace Leeding and Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Stroschein. Joel Ogle, a past district governor, was also honored.

Coincident with the presentation of a handsome engraved gavel to Dr. Norton, symbol of his term of office, identical tokens were given to John Lutz and Dr. Stroschein in appreciation of their past presidencies.

A program of professional songs and dances followed during the remainder of dinner, after Lee Smith, as program chairman, had introduced LeRoy Burns, acting master of ceremonies.

Bridge and dancing completed the enjoyable evening, at which more than 50 couples were present.

Mrs. Thompson was among those reading original compositions, and others were Mrs. Maurice Hollowell, a member who read a story called "Brass Rings for Larry," and Mrs. William Fritcher, who read a poem, as well as letters from Mrs. Emmett Elliott, a member who has been visiting for several months in Honolulu.

TWO-FACED WARDROBE FOR SUMMER BUDGET

ALL-SPORTS OUTFIT

This outfit, all of lightweight wool jersey—white shirt, dark blue shorts and skirt—is good for golf, tennis, sailing. It has a jersey brassiere to wear with the shorts for swimming.

DOUBLE-DUTY COAT

By day this summer-weight wool coat steps out with any gay sports costume. By night it goes to the country club over a colorful cotton dress. Stitching gives it a crisp finish.

A BUDGET 'MUST'

A suit can be worn on vacations, week-end trips or cool days in town. This one, of lightweight gray tropical worsted, is worn with a Persian silk scarf and a turban. The skirt is pleated.

FOR DINING OR DANCING

You can go a lot of places in this summer evening frock of white dimity splashed with old-fashioned nosegays. Its frilled shoulder line, suggestive of brief sleeves, fits it for dinner while its full skirts is good for dancing. Caught at the base of the vee decolletee is a cluster of gay summer flowers. Your summer evening gown may be of dotted swiss, pique, dimity, net or chiffon.

Mary Stoddard Private Secretary Who Loves Two Men Is Like a Small Boy at the Circus

"Private Secretary," 26 years old, divorced, remarried and claiming to know all about life, wrote recently that she is quite sure she loves both her husband and her employer. She cuts us off at the pockets as far as offering any constructive advice when she adds, "and don't tell me to leave my home and don't tell me to leave my office." However, a young mother, offers her viewpoint and has written the following letter to "Private Secretary" while her baby is asleep:

Dear Miss Stoddard: Having read "Private Secretary's" letter, I cannot resist expressing an opinion, whether or not she considers it of any worth.

Dear "Secretary": Being a gardener and a close-to-nature sort, I guess I look at things somewhat differently than the others who have written in to date.

Being a self-supporting young woman, I can't see for the life of me why you are dependent upon your husband, in other words, whether or not she considers it of any worth. You know just because a person has never seen the real thing is no reason why it is sinful to seek it. You seem a little muddled along this line. But from an experienced seat, let me say: That if you were really in love with your husband, no employer would have any charms for you, and vice versa.

But, my dear, when Mr. Right does come along, there won't be any wobbling to and fro, and there won't be any doubt about that.

Marriages are, I truly believe, made in heaven, not earth, and all the mulling in the world won't make a marriage, any more than it will make a bud come on a rose, if the rose doesn't find the right food to grow it.

I, for one, would not condemn that rose for searching hither and yon for the food to make the blossom that nature intended it should have, that it might be glorified and also bring the seed to perpetuate the plant again.

And now we come to the little warning I wish to give. Children have a right to be pure bred, else they may be a tempestuous store in themselves, or worse than a dagger in their mothers' hearts.

Have a care, then, how you choose this path, if you would have happiness for yourself and those you must love.

LIKE SMALL BOY
Civilization has robbed us of the sense to define whether we are a species of the onion or the rose! How then can we tell who to choose as a mate?

Let us say you are a small boy wandering around the town, hunting for the circus. You don't know where it is, but it is somewhere in this place. Okeh. Now should your feet lead you into the right path, you would find it. Oh, boy complete! The smell, the noise, the music will thrill you as nothing else can possibly do. Do you leave when it is half out to wander away somewhere else? Then this is not the circus—or love, either, my dear.

We stay to see each act through to the very end. Once you have touched it you will know, for love is God and all good descends from this source. Who then would, if he has faced the sun, return to sulk in a dungeon?

Let us say then that true love is good, so good—like getting home after a long and tiresome journey. Likewise he who has searched and knelt at the throne will not say: I am good and you, bad. But rather, search and ye shall find.

Preparations Discolor White Hair

By C. N. CHRISTIAN, M. D.
In the first place no one knows what determines the color of our hair and the different colors turn with age like leaves on the trees. Most of the old shades we see in white hair come from some of the numerous preparations used in washing or curling the hair.

It is a problem for your chosen hairdresser to solve for you. If that happens to be yourself, look carefully into the soaps or solutions you use on your hair and be particularly careful of the degree of heat in curling it.

If you go to a beauty shop, they can use certain rinses for the present that will modify the lovely yellow streaks until the hair grows out.

This brings up the whole subject of trying to make hair some other color or type than it naturally would be. When the hair is washed, any residue of the cleaning agent left on it is, if subject to heat, likely to turn an undesirable color.

Moral, then, is to be sure the hair is absolutely clean after applying soap or any emulsion. A beauty column editor recently said the hair is not absolutely clean until it "squeaks" when you apply the final rinse.

I shall not go into the delicate subject of just what happens when you try to change the color of hair. An editor gets a serious jolt back when he talks about hair dyes. But I am always interested in knowing why folks want to appear different from their normal selves.

There is the large group that must retain their youthful appearance for economic reasons. No doubt, this group is justified in doing as they do, since the demands of our economic set-up are so inexorable. Then there are the folks, usually women, but often men, who can't believe it is time for them to be showing signs of age. Since they have youthful features, graying hair is not becoming, they say.

Hollywood SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD.—James Hogan, who ran the directional gamut from hoochy op'ry to sea epic in three pictures, is doing "Ebb Tide" at the Paramount heralds it as the first sea picture in the rainbow medium, which it doubtless is if you forget Douglas Fairbanks' "The Black Pirate."

Hogan, an old-timer, made his comeback as a director on a western, and first thing any of us knew he was handed a big "A" picture. He knows it's an "A" because in the champagne-wasting scenes it's real champagne that's wasted. (Stockholders note: But just the few bottles, essential for dramatic and color reasons.)

"There aren't any hoeses in this one," he said, "but I can handle it. Formula's the same. I'll just make the sea run faster."

DEBUT FOR ENGLISH ACTOR
"Ebb Tide" will make the unduly debut of a real actor, Oscar Homolka by name, who hitherto has appeared in British films.

I watched Hogan direct him and Barry Fitzgerald, another real actor, in a dramatic scene. They're on the few bottles, essential for dramatic and color reasons.)

"There aren't any hoeses in this one," he said, "but I can handle it. Formula's the same. I'll just make the sea run faster."

"I'll buy it," Hogan called, ending the scene. And Homolka, an instant before a man torn by emotion, became a pleasant, unassuming fellow who looks out under out bushy black eyebrows and smiles.

He is not yet, I'm afraid, a typical Hollywood star. When he spilled champagne on his hands, in a previous take, he lost no time waiting for four prop men to rush with towels. He pulled out his handkerchief and used it himself.

THEME SONG
Benny Baker reports he wandered into a "horse room" on the boulevard and heard the following conversation from three actors betting quarters:

First: "If I don't win this time I don't know what's going to happen; I'm broke."

Second: "What're you kicking about? If I don't get a day's work tomorrow I won't have eaten in five."

Third: "That's nothing. All I worry about is money. I go to sleep with it and I wake up with it—worrying."

That's all. Not funny. Just a Hollywood theme song, or variations on a single tune.

ACTRESS WINS DIVORCE
LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Eleanor May Heinze, known on the screen as Eleanor Huntley, was divorced from Robert Kellogg Heinze, tire salesman, on her testimony yesterday that he became intoxicated three times a week.

IN "HOLLYWOOD COWBOY"—George O'Brien and Cecilia Parker, above, find time for romancing in "Hollywood Cowboy," story of a range war carried on primarily with an aeroplane, which opens at the Broadway theater tomorrow with "The Great Gambini," mystery drama, starring Akim Tamiroff.

BURNS COMEDY CLOSES RUN

Tonight theatergoers of Santa Ana and vicinity will have the last chance to see "Mountain Music," starring Bob Burns, celebrated Arkansas drawler, in a comedy of life among the Ozark hillbillies, and a second feature, "Behind the Headlines," starring Lee Tracy.

A favorite throughout the nation for his stories of the down home folks on the air, in the newspapers and in films, Burns and his $12,000,000 vice trust in New York City, and includes in its cast such familiar screen names as Bryant Washburn, Wheeler Oakman, Martha Chapin, Gaston Glass, Vera Steadman and Robert Fraser.

present a new program, with "Hollywood Cowboy," featuring George O'Brien and Cecilia Parker, and "The Great Gambini," with Akim Tamiroff and Marian Marsh.

Lee Tracy, whose rapid-fire portrayals have won him a favored place in the roster of screen stars, takes the role of a radio reporter in "Behind the Headlines." Theme of the story revolves around rivalry between newspaper and radio reporters. Diana Gibson, a live-wire girl reporter, furnishes much of the romantic interest and the rivalry.

POWELL-RAINER FILM OPENS

Screen version of the famous novel by the Baroness Orczy, "The Emperor's Candlesticks," opens tonight at the West Coast theater with William Powell and Louise Rainer in the starring roles. Second feature on the bill is "Forlorn River," a robust story of the old West from the pen of Zane Grey, starring Larry Crabbe.

In "The Emperor's Candlesticks," Powell, seen as a debonair secret agent in Europe, has a gay continental role. Miss Rainer, erstwhile Chinese slave-wife in "The Good Earth," is an exotic spy in this new and intriguing film. In settings of glamorous beauty in many countries, the swift action follows the adventures of these two. Always there is suspense, danger and intrigue, brightened by witty dialogue and sparkling comedy. With romance comes a problem which is solved in unique manner. The supporting cast includes Robert Young, Maureen O'Sullivan, Frank Morgan, Henry Stephenson and Douglas Dumbrille.

Over two thousand wild range horses are used in several of the thrilling sequences in "Forlorn River," featuring a cast headed by Larry Crabbe, June Martel, John Patterson, Harvey Stephens and Chester Conklin. The horses "pose" as remounts consigned for the army, which are saved from a band of rustlers by Crabbe, who rides the range again as a happy-go-lucky cowhand, out for a feast, a fight or a frolic.

How about mentioning food, for a change?

Concerning food, my nomination for the No. 1 ham-cooker—wait a minute, I'd better say cooker-of-ham, and keep out of trouble—in Orange county is Mrs. Leslie F. Kimmell of Laguna Beach.

I've been served ham in gilded palaces—almost—and ham in hovels. I've eaten ham from prize hogs, ordinary hogs, mediocre hogs and downright poor hogs. Filled with cloves, covered with brown sugar, baked, fried, boiled, nearly raw and burned. What I'm trying to get at is that I regard myself as more of a ham expert than a ham expert.

As far as this department is concerned, anyway. But Mrs. Kimmell cooks ham like no one else. 'S wonderful! Wave a butcher knife at the juicy tidbit as it comes from the oven, and the slices automatically fall off. At the first taste of such a slice of ham, mouths water and eyes fill with tears. It's ham like explorers dream about when lost in the wilderness, when thinking of home and delicious food!

What I'm trying to get at is that she knows how to cook ham!

Down in Huntington Beach, Mayor Willis Warner and his city council have done something.

First, they stepped right up to the plate and banged out a home run—as far as city employees are concerned, anyway. They raised everyone's pay. Five per cent, which whoops common labor salaries higher than ever before in the history of the city.

But that's only half of it. They also decided it's time to start in saving money. And whacked and cut and pared, until the budget looks like a well-aged piece of Swiss cheese. But it doesn't smell. It's $27,000 smaller than last year.

Somewhat or other, it seems like Huntington Beach is to be congratulated for its city council!

Yeah, and in that new budget, the Scouts are to get their long-discussed and much-needed cabin in Recreation park. I'll fill a need that's long been apparent for both boys and girls, and no one'll argue against such an expenditure. Unless they're old meanies.

Also, in the new list of expenditures, residents along Thirteenth street will get relief from winter floods. About $18,000 will be spent for enlargement of the storm drain business, and maybe next winter folks won't be forced to move out every time it sprinkles!

How many other cities are going to raise wages and yet save money for taxpayers? Anaheim, I'll bet, but are there any others? Speak right up, boys!

Now for a little hop back to Laguna, where my pal Laurie has been noticing things again.

This'n is about an asserted old-timer, and has all the possibilities of a nice feud mixed up in it. Feud for thought, anyway. Laurie explains it like this:

Sombody mixed oil and water over the week-end. He really did it.

One of Laguna's self-termed "old-timers"—that is, he rents a cottage down on the water front two weeks out of the year—was showing a week-end visitor about town. After showing the visitor Heister park, the city hall and other points of strictly civic interest, including the bright, sandy beach bedecked with beauties, he stopped with his friend by the post office.

Around the corner strolled an elderly gentleman, clad in "Bohemian" manner, and also wearing a nice white Santa Claus beard. "Who's that?" the visitor asked, sotto voce.

"That, my friend, my friend..." Here the "old-timer" faltered. "That gentleman is..." ah... yes, Karl Yens, the famous water colorist!" The visitor was impressed.

But Monday, the self-termed "old-timer" asked one truly sophisticated to the ways and means of Laguna who in the devil that old gentleman in the white beard is. "Why, it couldn't be anyone but Frank Cuprien, dean of Laguna's art colony and oil painter of note," the true Lagunan answered.

Rumor has it that the "old-timer" was, like his friend, impressed; that Yens (having heard about it) was depressed about hearing that the "old-timer" expressed the falsehood!

GROVE ZONING DEADLOCKED

Planning Board to Await Unified Action

GARDEN GROVE.—Until the people of Garden Grove are able to come to a unified agreement, Garden Grove's proposed zoning plan will go floating about the atmosphere with no place to land. Such was the decision reached by the Orange county planning commission here last night at its third zoning hearing, held in the Washington school auditorium with less than 100 persons attending.

Sponsored by the chamber of commerce, the zoning proposal met such strong opposition last night from persons living outside the most thickly populated section of this unincorporated community, that the planning commission came to the conclusion it would be useless to present a zoning ordinance for this section to the board of supervisors.

C. Denning Tilton, planning commission consultant, explained the zoning proposal to the residents, whose showing of hands indicated the majority present were not in favor of the plan, particularly on the size of the district it had been planned to zone.

Julius Markel, member of the commission, offered a motion to drop the proposal entirely, but this was amended on the suggestion of Commissioner Hugh T. Thompson to have the people of the community come before the commission at such time in the future when they have come to a harmonious agreement on the size of the district to be zoned.

Dr. W. L. Bigham, chairman of the commission, presided.

Huston, secretary; Earl Volberding, treasurer; Heinz Kaiser, tall-twister; and W. H. Ford, lion-tamer.

As a special mark of esteem, Harris presented to the new president a solid copper gavel made from ore taken from the world's largest copper mine, at Pinkham City, Utah.

Pinkley was presented with a gold past-president's pin and Leslie Steffenson was inducted as a new member by Harris, who, in turn, was voted in as an honorary member by the club.

The program, in charge of Harold Grauel, featured group singing, Mrs. Leroy Anderson being the accompanist, and bag-pipe selections by Murdoch Mathewson.

LEADERS PLEDGE SUPPORT TO FLOOD CONTROL PROGRAM

FULLERTON.—Residents of eight Orange county cities today are ready to support the $2,500,000 flood control bond issue, according to speakers at last night's meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce in the Bit of Scandia cafe.

That James Irvine, owner of the vast Irvine ranch, will support the program was announced by Brad Hellis, Irvine ranch official. He said he knew of no organized opposition to the program. While Irvine would gain no advantage, he said, yet the rancher will back the program for the good of the county.

FULLERTON ANGLE Previous opposition, he said, was not based upon opposition to the idea, but upon opposition to the means of accomplishing the goal.

Herman Hiltcher, Fullerton city engineer, said the progress of the county would be handicapped until the present flood menace is controlled and storm waters conserved.

He also stated that after one storm last year the city of Fullerton was forced to spend $50,000 to clear up the debris. He said the solution of the problem is at the source.

L. A. Hogue, Brea, said his city is not directly affected but is willing to share part of the cost. The important thing is that army engineers have accepted the program.

Supervisor Willard Smith of Orange pointed out that the federal government will give $13,000,000 to Orange county's $2,500,000. From this, he said, labor may expect new jobs with real pay, and not upon a relief basis.

Judge Scovel granted a petition by Mrs. Mertha Duncan, the boy's mother, to settle for $108.50 for Wayne and $100 for Dean a Santa Ana justice court suit brought against James Hughes and Willard Lake as the result of an automobile accident last April 24.

When Patty Lou Palmer, stenographer in a branch office of the National Insurance Company, becomes engaged to the wealthy Dale Northcutt, she makes an enemy of Mardell Gray, the beautiful but hard-boiled office manager, for Mardell has set her cap for Dale. He is the son of the head of the Northcutt Construction Company, which is slated to be awarded the contract for a big dam, and which is expected to give National the business of underwriting the bond for the job. Chet Brownell, bond writer for National, is counting desperately on getting this business.

National's rival, the Great American Insurance Company, offers Mardell a thousand dollars to alter the bids made by the two companies for the bond underwriting. She succeeds in doing so. On the morning the dam contract is to be awarded, Chet and Mr. Blount, general manager of National's branch office, are disturbed when they do not hear from Mr. Northcutt. Finally, they depart for the meeting at which the award is to be made.

CHAPTER XV AT noon, Pamela came back. Alice returned at one, declaring she was too nervous to stay home. It was two before Mr. Blount and Chet returned. Blount's face, gray and drawn, told a graphic story of failure. Chet looked even worse.

Mr. Blount beckoned to Mardell, led her into his private office, and closed the door. Alice followed Chet into his office and also closed the door.

Tense minutes passed. Patty Lou stared at those closed doors. They were so ominous, somehow. None of the girls made any pretense of working. They gathered in little groups, talking in low tones.

Finally Mr. Blount's door opened, and he and Mardell came out. "The Greenwood Dam contract was awarded to Northcutt," Mardell announced clearly, "but the bond was placed with Great American."

Silence followed her words. Mardell beckoned to the office boy. "Lock the outside door. Mustn't have any outsiders in for a few minutes. And summon everyone here."

When every one was assembled, Mardell, with Mr. Blount beside her, began speaking.

"Mr. Blount is positive our bid was tampered with. Chet Brownell swears the figure was changed. They both suspect a traitor in this office. Of course, whoever did this despicable thing must have received a nice sum of money from 'Great American.'"

She stopped. For a moment, there wasn't a sound in the room. Then, she went on. "Mr. Blount and I thought at first there was no way to catch this—this person. But," triumphantly, "there is! The Greenwood Dam contract is not in the Blount's private office. Whoever has it is the guilty party. We're sorry, but we must search each desk."

"You and I will do it, Chet," Mr. Blount said heavily. "Mardell will help. The rest of you remain where you are."

They began the search. Desk after desk. Every eye was on the searchers. Once, when Mardell opened a letter opener of a table, every one jumped. Several times, the door knob of the outside door rattled, but no one made a move to open it.

Finally all the desks had been searched except Patty Lou's. Mardell moved toward it. She looked through the piles of papers on top of it, then went through the top drawer, then the bottom one and, at last, the bottom one.

Suddenly, she gasped. "Mr. Blount! Chet!" she called. She was drawing out a file.

PATTY LOU'S horrified eyes could see the printed mark "Greenwood Dam and Spillway." A chill shot through her. "But I—" she began.

Then her tongue cleaved to the roof of her mouth. The room began to whirl. All those eyes—accusing, astonished, unbelieving, Chet's were the worst. Hurt, bewildered eyes.

"Patty Lou, I found her voice. 'Chet, I didn't—I couldn't,'" he answered. There was utter weariness in his tone.

"I don't think so, Patty Lou," she answered. "I might have known you were running around with Dale Northcutt for any good."

Patty Lou passed her hand across her forehead.

"Mardell, I—I didn't put that file there. I don't know."

"Don't lie!" Mardell snapped. "Don't make matters worse by lying. How much did Great American pay you? Tell us!"

Mardell was gripping Patty Lou's shoulders, shaking her.

"Miss Goody-good!" she went on. "Sweet, good-natured, imposed upon! All for a reason, eh, Patty Lou? Can't get boy friends. Verna Powers Dick Jones, and even Chet! Notice, Chet doesn't think she's guilty even now. Well, he'll soon find out!"

"But I'm not guilty—I'm not! I'm not!" Patty Lou screamed wildly. "I don't know anything about the file! I—"

Mr. Blount's voice interrupted her.

"Go into my office, Patty Lou. You come, Mardell, and you, Chet, and—"

He named several of the other men.

COUNTY TO TAX GAS PLANT

L. A. Must Pay on Its Seal Beach Property

The city of Los Angeles, if it hasn't heard, had better unlimber its legal field artillery.

County Assessor James Sleeper returned from Seal Beach, a grim light in his eye and his cigar at a grimmer angle.

"Now that lighting plant," he began, "is all settled. There's about $2,375,000 worth of real estate and machinery over there that's going on our tax rolls. The machinery isn't going to be personal property; it's equipment."

No matter which way Sleeper moved he was in for a fight. Because Los Angeles, which this year bought the Seal Beach electric plant from a private corporation, can't be taxed on personal property—about $2,000,000 of which over there is machinery.

But a city can be taxed for "improvements," which is what all the generators and things are going to be called.

Los Angeles undoubtedly will be seeing Sleeper in court.

Oil Firm Builds Booster Plant

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—To maintain its oil production at high standard, the McVicar-Rood partnership, largest oil and gas producing firm in the town oil field here, is completing installation of a huge compressor plant at a cost of $20,000.

The plant is being installed at Twenty-second street and Walnut avenue, site of the first whipstocked oil well in the world, the old Viceroy well which marked the beginning of a new departure in the oil industry.

The new compressor plant will boost production of the whipstocked wells in the town oil field owned by the McVicar-Rood partnership.

Mesa Church May Drop Unified Plan

COSTA MESA.—At a Sunday school board meeting and official church board meeting Monday night, it was voted that the church abandon the newly adopted unified service plan. Since the plan was put in operation about three months ago, a sizable decrease in both attendance and funds has been noted.

The board's recommendation will be read before the congregation next Sunday, and a vote of all adult members will be taken the following Sunday.

The meeting, in the form of a pot-luck dinner, was held at the H. B. McMurry home at 220 East Twentieth street.

Baby to Recover From Potent Drink

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—Two-year-old Huddy Boardley learned considerable about drinking from strange bottles here yesterday.

The child swallowed a quantity of chlorox. Mrs. Bruce Boardley, the mother, called police, who rushed the child from the family home at 1205 East Central to the emergency hospital.

Treated by Dr. G. M. Grundy, the youngster later was taken home and pronounced out of danger.

Plan New $75,000 Theater For San Clemente Area

Work will start almost at once on this new $75,000 theater for residents of the San Clemente district, officials of the Capital Company, Bank of America subsidiary and developers of the famed Spanish Village announced today. The theater project is the second step in a huge civic center plan advanced by the developers, a dance casino now being under construction.

Supervisors to Ride in H. B. Fourth Parade

County supervisors are going to ride in the annual Fourth of July parade at Huntington Beach, but for all they know they may ride in a truck or may be surrounded by movie actresses.

Members of the board agreed to take part in the beach celebration, set for July 5 at 11 a. m., and left details of transportation and decoration up to Supervisor Harry D. Riley, who wasn't very happy with the job. He hinted at all sorts of antiquated vehicles for transportation, because the invitation stipulated use of "open" cars.

Supervisors agreed that Riley not only should arrange for transportation, but he must promise to ride in whatever vehicle he chooses for the parade, thereby assuring something not too ridiculous for supervisory participation in the event.

Steele Finley argued that no decoration would be needed, that supervisors were decoration enough for any car, while Supervisor John Mitchell suggested use of an open truck with chairs for the purpose, but no one mentioned top hats.

LEGION WOMEN HAVE ELECTION

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—Election of officers was held at the monthly meeting of the Legion auxiliary Monday, those named to office being: Edna Miller, president; Helen Randall, first vice-president; Louise Estus, second vice-president; Mabel Cummings, secretary-treasurer; Esther Sunc, sergeant-at-arms; Florence Anderson, musician; Edith Downing, chaplain; Bessie Pullen, marshal, and Beatrice Ford, historian.

The new executive board will be composed of: Gertrude Gordon, Mayme St. Clair and Zelma Hostetter, delegates to county council; Esther Sund, Helen Randall and Edith Downing; and delegates to the state convention, Neila Norton, Edna Miller, Louise Estus. Alternates will be Katherine Sumner, Edith Downing and Isabel Ganahl.

It was reported that during the year the unit spent $306.85 for rehabilitation work, ranking second in the district in this respect. Child welfare for the year amounted to $219.66. Certain other distinction was gained for the local unit in its having captured both first and second prizes in the district for essays on national defense. First prize was awarded to Catherine Ensign.

The unit now has 81 members, 14 of whom have been added during the past year.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK. (AP)—Steels and rails played a leading role in today's stock market rally of fractions to around 3 or more points.

Generally favorable industrial news and reduction of preferred dividend arrears by U. S. Steel Corp., helped to sweeten the market dish, brokers said.

At the same time, chart analysts were heartened by the progress of rails. Recent droopy behavior of this group has put a drag on the market's progress it was said.

Scattered issues met offerings at mid-days and in the final hour. Although strikes deterred traders from entering the market more aggressively, Wall Street psychology showed further signs of having hardened itself to disturbing news, it was said.

SEA WALL FETE FLAGS STOLEN

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—Balboa island's huge celebration marking completion of the new $100,000 sea wall around the island may turn out to be expensive after all.

During the event held two weeks ago expensive decorations were placed upon new light standards. Light-fingered visitors have been carrying away the flags and banners as trophies, residents of the island told police here today.

Nearly all of the decorations have been stolen, it was reported. Valuation of the missing articles was given as 28 pieces of decorative material valued at three dollars each.

Chief of Police R. R. Hodgkinson and his men are watching for further trophy hunters.

PLAN CABIN FOR GIRL SCOUTS

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—The Girl Scouts of this city will have a cabin of their own in which to hold their meetings and activities, if plans of the city council are carried out.

The proposed city budget for the coming year includes $75,000 for the improvement of Recreation park, and among the improvements planned is a cabin for the exclusive use of the Girl Scouts.

Under the proposed plan, the Boy Scouts will have a new cabin and extensive playground equipment will be installed in the park.

DAUGHTERS OF THEIR HUSBANDS

Early Roman law held women in complete disdain. Under its provisions members of the fair sex were excluded from holding civil or public office, could not sign wills or make contracts, were not allowed to act as witnesses and could not inherit property from anyone dying intestate other than their brothers or husbands. In the eyes of the law, a married woman was the daughter of her husband. All property was owned by the husband. In the event that he died before his wife, she came under the guardianship of any man named by her husband in his will. Unmarried women were under the perpetual guardianship of their fathers or nearest male relative. PRESIDENTIAL SLAVE OWNERS . . . Strange as it seems, two of the United States presidents who owned slaves played major parts in the freeing of the slaves. One was U. S. Grant, commander of the Union forces during the latter part of the Civil war. The other was Andrew Johnson, vice president and successor to Abraham Lincoln, the "Great Emancipator." Other slave-owning presidents were Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Tyler, Polk and Taylor.

Service—A Record Worthy Of Praise

More than 25,000 Boy Scouts from 24 different lands are gathering today at Washington for the National Scout Jamboree—and among them are boys from this part of the Southland.

But behind the statistics, there is a very interesting story involving the growth of the Scout organization and its important work in "youth rehabilitation."

The bare figures themselves show that on April 30, Cubs, Scouts and adult leaders in the United States organization totaled well over a million, with a gain of nearly 60,000 over the roster of April, 1936. More than seven and a half million boys and men are or have been connected actively with the Boy Scouts of America since the movement began in 1910.

But the significance of these figures does not by any means match that of the program actually carried on by the Scout organization.

When the movement began, it was beset by scores of difficulties. Before long it was being called "sissy," a class group, and for many years was accused of being the training ground for soldiers of the future. Worst of all, it was earmarked by fanatics as a vehicle for religious discrimination.

Fortunately, the basic principles of the Scout movement were sound enough to disprove the charges, absorb the handicaps and move ahead to new fields of immense private and public service.

In Cleveland, one of the great problems of a general campaign against crime was solved almost magically by the Scout organization. One large section of the city, overrun by rival teen-age mobsters who were aping big shot criminals, was brought back to respectability by interesting those youngsters in Scout work. Within a year practically all the boys who had been thieving and roistering were working at honest jobs or going to school. They even formed an "improvement" board for the civic betterment of their neighborhood.

This example has its counterpart in many communities, and as Scout membership continues to mount, so will its possibilities for public service.

As against idealists who are trying to attain Utopia by mechanical education, soap box oratory or just plain shouting, the Boy Scout technique affords a refreshing contrast.

The grewsome Inglewood slaughter reminds us that more murders are committed per capita in the United States than in any other so-called civilized nation.

Needy Children—And School Cafeterias

An item in The Journal stating that the local school cafeterias ran in the red again last year makes us do some serious thinking.

If the eating stands ran at a loss, it stands to reason that the taxpayer had to make up the $988 deficit.

And since the taxpayer had to make up this deficit, the same gentleman therefore was paying out of his own pocket for some of the lunches of the dear little kiddies.

School cafeterias are patronized by rich and poor youngsters alike; but mostly by the "rich," we imagine, as the "poor" child generally has to lug his own lunch or do without. Not all parents can afford to contribute 15 to 30 cents cash a day for Junior's noon meal.

We bring this up because time and again this spring The Journal called attention to the miserable plight of under-nourished youngsters in our schools—how some of them fainted at their desks, and how all of them suffered from lack of energy and strength to enjoy the growth and play that should be the natural heritage of every child.

Yet, so far as we know, neither the school board nor the supervisors did anything to help get wholesome food to these hungry tots.

What help that was generously given came from private sources like sympathetic teachers and the Parent-Teacher associations.

If the school administration is going to continue to run these cafeterias at a loss, it at least ought to work out an arrangement whereby the needy children get the benefit of the deficit, instead of having it go to the average youngster whose parents usually can afford to keep him supplied with enough nourishment.

Let's put that $988, or whatever amount the shortage ran to, where it will do the most good for the growing generation.

It is reported that some of the steel employers don't like the National Guard as well as they used to.

Billboards Vs. Scenery On New Route

It is hoped those dispatches from Monterey are right in stating that there will be no billboards to mar the beauty of the new Carmel-San Simeon coast highway which opened Sunday.

Monterey and Carmel people take it for granted that there won't be any billboards because the Monterey and San Luis Obispo county boards of supervisors have passed ordinances zoning the entire highway as a scenic area and banning the boards.

But before Gov. Merriam for signature or rejection is the McColl bill that automatically scraps such ordinances by requiring that the state department of public works willy-nilly grant permits for billboards in any commercial zone.

Now, a commercial zone is defined by law as any area where a filling-station, restaurant, soft-drink stand or similar commercial establishment exists. A few such establishments must be permitted on the 87-mile stretch of uninhabited coastline between Carmel and San Simeon.

We urge Gov. Merriam to veto the McColl bill, which would destroy much progress already made by county boards, remove control from local authorities and open every scenic highway in the state to commercial exploitation at the expense of the traveler in search of beauty.

NEW YORK.—Trinity church and its side yard of crumbling graves is the calm which the scientists tell us is the vortex of every hurricane. Coming out of the rip tide of Wall Street so suddenly into Trinity's benign serenity is something of an emotional experience. It has moved poets.

On pleasant days stenographers and clerks at noon-day stroll among the ancient tombstones and often there is a spread of napkins for a luncheon on the old slabs marking the crypts of illustrious dead. One of the famous monuments is that of Alexander Hamilton.

At 12 m. when Wall and Broad streets erupt their herds, the notes from the great Trinity organ come trembling down the nave and float out on the tumbling roar of traffic. It is surprising the number of brokers attending the mid-day services. Almost always it is packed.

But it's at night when the lower tip of the island is desolated that Trinity is most impressive. Especially when a thin scimitar of a moon hangs in a clear sky and the ancient cross points so majestically upward at the very gates of Mammon.

In my Park Row days Broad street and its then busy curb market always had its non-day religious services. They were conducted by an apple-cheeked priest known to the quarter as the Bishop of Wall Street. He talked of spiritual things for a half hour and never failed to draw an earnest, attentive crowd. He passed on several years ago, so far as one has supplanted him.

It is little known that disciples of the Ticker and Tape are frequently regular church goers and there is scarcely a big brokerage house without its quota of Bible students. Indeed, a religious statistical survey in New York a few years ago revealed that among the most ardent religionists were the theater folk of Broadway and the bankers and brokers downtown. J. P. Morgan has always been especially active in community church affairs, as was his father, George F. Baker attended services regularly. So did the elder Stillman and scores of others whose names loomed large in finance.

The department stores are going to town in grandeur, speed and comfort with escalators. One no longer rides but fairly floats. The new escalator has a way of wafting the customer upward with the giddy thrill of an aeroplane take-off. They are modernistic, glittering and magnificent. In the stores clerks call them "escalators" folk who come in solely to enjoy the upward scoot.

The testimonial dinner racket has been striking smags recently and several on the fire have been "postponed," which means they have been called off. One of the testimonial dinner outfits operates from an opulent set of offices in one of the skyscraper spires. Their stunt is to secure the sponsorship of a few choice names, the consent of the celebrity honor guest, and then put on a high pressure sales campaign. If the promoters can put the dinner over in a big way they can clear several thousands. But those who attend such affairs have grown skittish. They have got to know that such dinners are spontaneously inspired by friends and not high pressure boys.

Anna Held's daughter, known as Anna Held, Jr., has retired from her experiments in conducting restaurants. Her first place was opened on the Bronx Parkway with a dining verandah overlooking an artificial lake swimming with ducks. Later she opened a winter cafe on upper Lexington avenue. She did fairly well in both spots, but her great occupational love is for gardening and she is now raising peonies on a refurbished estate near Quinby, Va. During her leisure hours she fishes with her husband, J. Dodd Martensen, a golf pro. Anna Held, Jr., while a bit plumper than her celebrated mother, has the same rolling eyes which the original Anna Held in her most famous song "could not make believe."

Two of the largest hotels recently had stamped on their silverware, "Stolen From Blank Hotel" in the effort to frustrate the souvenir hunters. Instead, it increased the pilfering. House detectives say such purloiners do not regard this sort of theft as a moral issue any more than does J. P. Morgan income tax evasion. I have heard of an otherwise respectable gentleman who has a complete dinner service for six pilfered from hotels all over the world. Indeed, I've hooked a few towels and ash trays here and there myself.

ORTIZ, Mexico.—With the entire rebel army fortified at Bachimba, 15 miles north of here, the federal strategists have mapped out a plan expected to prevent escape by the rebels. It is believed there will be no fighting for at least three days. It is needed to give the various detachments an opportunity to assume designated positions.

The municipality sued to restrain the defendant corporation from maintaining an open ditch.

The formal opening of the Santa Ana Book store in the opera house block was held this afternoon and will continue tonight. The reception this afternoon saw many callers to inspect the new and greater store. Punch was served. Tonight there will be additional attraction for the young people or old folks who like to dance.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—Much will be said during the forthcoming senate debate on the supreme court issue about the extraordinary record of somersaults executed by Owen J. Roberts. Most of his reversals are well known, but perhaps the most remarkable of them all has completely escaped attention.

It occurred early in the afternoon of June 2, a few hours before Roberts and his colleagues shed their silken robes to depart on a four-months summer vacation. First, however, here is the background of the incident:

On May 17 the supreme court handed down an 8 to 1 decision in favor of the government in the American Sheet & Tin company case. The lone dissenter was Justice Pierce Butler. The majority opinion was written by Justice Roberts.

The decree, eliminating a form of railroad favoritism to big shippers, was a smashing victory for the government and for hundreds of small manufacturers who have to compete against larger rivals. But although they won the verdict at the hands of the full court, they lost in the secret chambers of Roberts' chambers. It was Roberts himself who had written the court's decision, but two weeks later, at the behest of the losers, he issued a stay of mandate suspending the judgment until the court reconvenes in October. Thus for a period of four months, Roberts in effect reversed not only himself but the entire court.

THE CASE

The case grew out of an inquiry conducted several years ago by the interstate commerce commission into the business practices of railroads. Besieged by demands from the carriers for higher freight rates, the ICC decided to ascertain if there were not other ways of increasing their revenue.

One thing discovered by the investigation was the practice of the roads giving large shippers—steel, packers, glass, etc.—big rebates for so-called "terminal allowances." After extended hearings held in practically every industrial center in the country, the ICC ordered the payments discontinued on the ground that they were unfair to small shippers and at the same time deprived the railroads of legitimate income.

Forty of the big shippers promptly started legal action to have the ICC order invalidated. The government won in federal courts in Kansas City, Milwaukee and South Bend, Ind. But a coalition in Pittsburgh held in favor of the shippers. It was this case, appealed by the government, which the supreme court decided in favor of the government—with Roberts writing the opinion.

STRANGE INTERLUDE

There were several interesting features of Roberts' action in issuing a stay of mandate on the losers' petition for a reconsideration of the case.

On June 1, the day before he granted his order, the supreme court summarily rejected two appeals by other shippers for a rehearing. In both instances it cited the May 17 decision as the basis for its turn-down.

Roberts issued his stay at the request of former Senator David A. Reed, Mellon attorney and a strong booster of Roberts for appointment to the supreme court. Pending the full court's action in October on Reed's petition, the big shippers, thanks to Roberts, will continue to receive their juicy "terminal allowances," running into hundreds of thousands of dollars for the four-month period.

OLD STORY

When the City of Brotherly Love staged a patriotic celebration recently, a number of diplomats traveled from Washington to take part in the ceremonies. Among them was sprightly, outspoken Joseph Daniels, U. S. ambassador to Mexico.

At the head of a long flight of stairs in the assembly hall stood Philadelphia's Mayor S. Davis Wilson, Republican. When Democrat Daniels arrived at the head of the stairs, he was greeted by Wilson, who beamed upon him and said:

"Mr. Ambassador, I've been waiting many years to receive you and to welcome you to the City of Philadelphia."

Daniels smiled, then remarked dryly: "Well, Mr. Mayor, you met me here at the Democratic convention and told me the same thing—just one year ago."

TREASURY RAID

For free and fancy treasury raiding, a bill offered by Representative Michael Reilly is one of the baldest schemes seen on Capitol hill in a long time.

In the name and clutter over relief, the supreme court and tax evasion issues, the Wisconsin Democrat's measure has escaped attention. It deserves a better fate, for it is a honey. It proposes, in effect, to make a gift to building and loan associations of the carrying charges on $153,000,000 worth of government loans—money that is costing the taxpayer from 2½ to 3 per cent interest a year.

This is the background of Reilly's ambitious grab: Under the Home Owners Loan corporation act, $300,000,000 was earmarked for the purchase of stock in building and loan associations hit by the depression. The object was to supply them with funds to get them back on their feet. The HOLC invested $153,000,000 in these companies under this provision of the law.

The government receives no interest on this money. It draws dividends on its shares, like the other stockholders. These dividends average around 3 per cent. Right at this point is where Mr. Reilly proposes entering the picture.

Under his bill (H. R. 3420) the requirement to pay these dividends TO THE HOLC would be wiped out. In other words, the building and loan associations would be given free use of $153,000,000 of taxpayers' money, which they lend to home owners at interest rates ranging from 5 to 8 per cent.

Note—Chief lobbyist for the Reilly measure is Morton Bodfish, $25,000-a-year vice-president of the Building and Loan League and a member of the Federal Home Loan bank board during the Hoover administration.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

One good turn deserves another. Secretary of Senator George L. Berry is F. L. Browning, brother of Tennessee's Governor Gordon Browning, who recently appointed Berry to the senate. Excerpt from a publicity blurb sent out about Pennsylvania's ardent New Deal Governor George Earle: "Governor Earle is descended from a long line of ancestors."

One Man's Opinion

By X REPORTER

In my neighborhood everybody who can dig up two or three planks more than six feet long and a bit of canvas or two, is out "yachting" these fine summer evenings.

If I go out to mow the lawn, almost immediately, it seems, a big parade of all manner of sailing craft passes in review, exerting the pull of a magnet on a poor landlubber whose heart is only about one-quarter in the job of grass-cutting anyway.

If I drive along the shore of the lake, seeking peace, quiet and the tonic of beauty for my soul, whole tribes of winged water craft are conjured up from nowhere, and brazenly flaunt their charms at me, like the alluring hussies they are.

Dull luggers that roll and wallow like sheep in a blizzard take on magic beauty when a few rods of open blue water separate them from the observer.

The little flat-bottomed craft—mostly manned by youngsters—seem like swallows flitting past as their high sea curves almost into cylinders under the pull of the wind.

Between the dark and the daylight—and that's a goodly span of time these long summer evenings—all the witchery that blue water has practiced on man since the dawn of time comes full-blown to work on the sensibilities of a landsman.

If you know the difference between a yawl and a kyak, these plaintive wails from a self-confessed landlubber won't mean a great deal to you. But if a moving triangle of white, on a field of blue exerts a magnetic pull on your physical being that you can feel clear to the tips of your toes—and you have no boat of your own—then you'll sympathize.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead (as the poet put it) who never to himself hath said: "I'm going to have me a white sail with a boat under it NEXT summer, come swell or high water."

That's the dickens of it. It's always NEXT summer.

I just fought again with myself the old battle of this summer versus next summer. Next summer won—doggone it.

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, no politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on the part of the citizen, and intelligent fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So going to have me a white sail with a boat under it NEXT summer, come swell or high water.

SLOT MACHINES IN SCHOOLS

To the Editor: Noting in a recent newspaper that with the consent of the Parent-Teachers Association of Riverside, Ill., a slot machine was installed in a school room, so that the pupils could play it and find out for themselves that they could not win, I write to the superintendent of schools of that place, inquiring about the experiment. The following reply was received:

Riverside Public Schools, District 96, Cook County, Riverside, Ill.

"Dear Mr. Sturges: In our eighth grade arithmetic classes, the plan of attacking the problem of gambling has worked out very successfully. The children were able to discover for themselves how small the chances of winning on slot machines and pinball machines really are. No coins were used in the study of the slot machine, as the machine was adjusted in such a way that it would operate by merely pulling a lever. One child would pull the lever 25 times while another child would keep a record on the black-board. As a result the total return for a group of 25 pupils was far below the number of times the machine was played."

"By actually figuring out the per cent of profit on more than 100 pinball machines advertised in many different commercial catalogues, the children were enabled to find the small chances of winning and the tremendous profits that were made."

"The children became so interested in this study that they made a voluntary survey of the slot machines and pinball machines in the community. They also made a study of the local ordinances covering gambling devices. The class decided to select a committee to present these facts to the village board, with a recommendation that the local ordinance be enforced. The village board instructed the village manager to see to it that the 22 pinball machines and three slot machines were immediately removed from the village."

"Yours very truly, (Signed) L. J. Hauser, Superintendent."

As a trustee of this information I thought I would pass it on to you for whatever it may be worth.

HERBERT A. STURGES, 270 N. Pine St., Orange.

REPUBLICANS COMING TO LIFE AGAIN

WASHINGTON.—Quietly and with evidence of having engaged in some constructive thinking, the Republicans are stirring to life again. This has not attracted much attention, because after the last election we all went off and left them for dead.

But within the last few weeks they have begun to recover consciousness and are beginning to take a few steps. Not only have they been moving quietly around to help beat the Roosevelt supreme court proposal but they have, largely through the activity of Sen. Bridges, the boy wonder from New Hampshire, goaded the administration into announcing alleged interference with the mail in the steel strike area. It isn't a great deal, but anything from the Republicans in these times is something.

G. O. P. MIMEOGRAPH BUSY

Also the Republican national committee has set its publicity mimeograph to running again. It had grown very dusty.

More significant, the national committee issues a statement by Sen. McNary of Oregon, Republican senator leader. You might think that the most natural thing in the world. But the fact is that Sen. McNary and the national committee have scarcely spoken to each other in months, much less spoken for each other. McNary has not been active in national campaigns since the New Deal began, being a little too much on the New Deal side to enter with relish into the spirit of the party. He thought Republican strategy was stupid and wished to have nothing to do with it.

Now, through the national committee, he has issued a statement deriding the Roosevelt "charm school" at Jefferson island and inviting anti-New Deal democrats—the New Dealers now call them "White Democrats"—to come over and join the Republicans in "sound, constructive action."

This was hardly noticed in the press although, under our ancient man-bites-dog rule, when Republican Leader McNary speaks through the Republican national committee it ought to be news. Especially when neither of them has said much since election.

VANDENBERG DUE CREDIT

While no doubt the energies of William Hard, who is the Charles Michelson of the Republican national committee, have had something to do with this revival of Republican action, much credit should go to Sen. Vandenberg, who by example has shown the party that it could find useful work to do. For months he has seemed to be the only Republican on the job. He has been speaking time after time, preparing the way for revision of the social security act, agitating for an improved child-labor amendment which has recently been unanimously approved by the senate judiciary committee, and trying to get the way for clarification of the highly controversial issues arising out of the labor situation. Vandenberg's latest contribution is a series of proposed amendments to the Wagner labor act which will serve as the basis for threshing out the question of labor responsibility. He has an acute sense of the vulnerable spots in the administration and as a rule he wastes little time on cheap side-issues.

In proposing these amendments Vandenberg offers them largely as a basis of discussion, remarking that he may have gone too far or not far enough but emphasizing that protection now may prevent radical restraints on labor later.

WANTS IT IN WRITING

He would make it possible for employers as well as labor to call for employee elections under the Wagner act. He would require all working agreements to be reduced to writing. Strikes could be called only by majority vote of employees. Breach of contract would be penalized. Unions as well as employers would be prohibited from using coercion or intimidation.

When the Wagner act was adopted, labor was thought to need the advantage of special governmental assistance. Now labor organization has developed to the point where Vandenberg and a good many others feel that it should be subjected to public obligations similar to those imposed upon employers. The thought is that some sort of action in this direction would prevent labor from being its own enemy and would take the wind out of the Girdlers.

Bright Moments

Thomas Hart Benton, the American statesman, had just finished writing the "Thirty Year View" and had sent it to press. The publisher asked about the number of copies it would be advisable to print. Benton's answer was "Sir, you can ascertain from the last census how many people there are in the United States who can read, sir."

Second Sailor—Yeah, and more ports!
